Northeast Area Voters Set For Major Decisions

With registration figures soaring, voters of the northeast area join the rest of Louisiana today in a trek to the polls that will decide five state senate seats—nine posts in the house of representatives, five sheriff's badges, one assessor post, and several state offices that are at stake.

In the first primary held on Dec. 5, former governor James H. Davis led the district in the gubernatorial race, trailed closely by State Senator W. M. Rainach.

One senator, Speedy O. Long of Jena, was re-elected without a runoff over three opponents. One of his opponents was state representative W. L. Rambo.

LOCALLY

In Ouachita parish candidates for the senatorial position, one of the two parish representatives, and three positions on the parish police jury, are winding up campaigns.

Two of the three positions for the police jury are in ward 5, where three members must be elected. One, Tom Hicks, received a clear majority in the first primary on December 5.

In the runoff for the state senate from Ouachita and Jackson parishes, Jamar W. Adcock is facing John Birdsong, Sr. Adcock was first in the primary Dec. 5, with Birdsong placing second. Three other candidates lost out in the first primary.

In the representative's race, Mike John Jr. and James C. (Jake) Ussery face a runoff for the second seat. One seat was easily captured by Lawrence Gibbs, who was seeking re-election in December.

Authorities Clear Widow In Slay Case

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—Investigators Friday cleared the widow of a slain deputy sheriff and said they have pinned down major parts of the love triangle murder of her husband.

Mrs. Minnie Kelly, attractive 23-year-old brunette, was released in the fatal beating and stabbing of her husband in the Montgomery County courthouse at Winona last weekend, the highway patrol said. Charged with murder in the death of 27-year-old William Kelly are former Montgomery County Sheriff Lawrence King, whose term expired Monday, and two Negroes, who said King plotted the killing they carried out.

THREE

All three were brought to the Leflore County jail here, where Mrs. Kelly was questioned. She was arrested earlier in the day at the home of her brother in Winona and returned to Winona after her release.

Highway patrolmen said their investigation showed that King

U.S. Registering Of Small Boats Halted In State

WASHINGTON (Special)—The Coast Guard will hold up federal registration of small boats in Louisiana until the state legislature can establish its own licensing system, Rep. T. A. Thompson (D) La., said Friday.

Under a 1958 law, all boats with motors of more than 10 horsepower must be registered by the Coast Guard by April 1 except in states, which have a local numbering system.

Members of the Louisiana delegation last year requested postponement of the deadline for Louisiana, whose legislature cannot establish a state boat license until after the federal deadline.

The Coast Guard ruled that it will postpone its deadline until July 1 for any state which is considering setting up its own system.

Thompson said, "I feel sure the Louisiana legislature—can provide for the numbering of these small boats under a state regulations rather than to have as an alternative a federally administered program."

New Laos Government Is Underway

National Group Member Claims Regime Illegal

VIENTIANE, Laos AP—The new Laotian government began functioning Friday. A member of the National Assembly, now solved and facing elections, called the new regime illegal.

The caretaker Cabinet, appointed by King Savang Vathana, took the oath of office in Buddhist rites. It is the first Laotian Cabinet ever named by the King without Assembly approval.

Headed by Kou Abhay, 70, a moderate, the Cabinet restored civil authority after a week of army rule. Its main task is to prepare for the Assembly elections, probably in the spring.

DEPUTY

An Assembly deputy who asked to remain unidentified said the new Cabinet is illegal because it does not have Assembly approval. But he added that the lawmakers are planning no action.

"We are powerless as long as we are facing guns and cannons," he said in a reference to army pressure behind the political changes in this sleepy Southeast Asian kingdom. "The Communists are watching. The Communists must be very happy about what is going on."

The new government came under immediate criticism from propaganda organs in Red China and North Viet Nam. The Peiping People's Daily said the regime would continue civil war, persecute the leftist Pathet Lao, and "turn Laos into a full-fledged U. S. colony and military base."

A Laotian spokesman at the United Nations in New York, however, insisted that Laos will maintain a neutralist foreign policy. He said the Foreign Ministry also had authorized him to say that "on the internal plane the government will strive for national reconciliation."

VIEWING RELIGION

Billy Graham Off To Awaken Africa

By TOM HENSHAW
 AP Religion Writer
 Evangelist Billy Graham, fit and rested from last year's strenuous six-month campaign in Australia, is off again this month seeking new souls to conquer on another continent.

The target: an awakening Africa. The two-month campaign, starting Jan. 18, will mark the first invasion of sub-Saharan Africa by the 42-year-old evangelist, who has preached just about everywhere else outside the Iron Curtain.

It comes at a critical time for Christianity in Africa, a continent alive with nationalist movements that tend to associate white missionaries with the old African

IN PARKER LYNCH CASE

Long-Secret Report Aired

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A long-secret FBI report on the lynching of Mack Charles Parker names 23 white men as "known and suspected participants" in the abduction of the Negro from the jail at Poplarville, Miss., United Press International learned Friday.

It contains statements from three men that they were involved in certain events connected with the midnight abduction from an unguarded cell at the Pearl River County jail.

One of the three men was quoted as saying that, because of fear, he gave jail keys to four men who came to his home the night of April 1, a few hours before the lynching.

REPORT

The report, read by a UPI reporter, said he told FBI agents that he knew the men "wouldn't hesitate" to do him or his family bodily harm if he refused to give them the keys.

He told the FBI that if he repeated his statement in court he "would have to leave the Poplarville area permanently in order to avoid violence to himself or his family."

None of the statements contained admissions that the men making them had themselves gone to the jail to get Parker.

The young Negro's body was found several days later in the waters of the Pearl River 20 miles west of Poplarville. He had been shot to death.

Parker, 23, a part-time truck driver, was in jail awaiting trial on charges of raping a Petal, Miss., white woman. A federal grand jury at Biloxi, Miss., is currently investigating possible federal law violations in connection with the lynching. A state grand jury at Poplarville two months ago did not indict anyone in the case.

The 378-page FBI report was a

OF MRS. FINCH Surgeon Gives Death Account

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An autopsy surgeon Friday gave this chronology of the violent death of socialist Barbara Jean Finch:

Her skull was fractured; she was shot in the back; her skull was fractured again, and she died of a massive hemorrhage caused by the bullet wound.

Dr. Gerald K. Ridge, testifying at the murder trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his sweetheart, Carole Tegloff, gave this account of how he believes the doctor's wife died:

FRACTURED

Her skull was fractured on the left side when, in her garage, she was either brutally struck or slammed against a wall; she ran, and in flight was struck from behind by a bullet which passed completely through her chest; dying, she collapsed while going down steps to the neighboring yard and struck her head on some hard object.

The state contends the wealthy surgeon ambushed his estranged wife in the garage when she returned to their suburban West Covina estate the night of last July 18. It charges he attacked and beat her in the garage then shot her in the back as she fled, to fall dead on the lawn next door.

"The (second) fracture over the eyeball," the autopsy surgeon said, "might have been sustained by a fall on an iron stake or some other hard object in that (the lawn) area."

"She was able to make it only as far as the hedge (bordering the lawn), at which position she died."

Dr. Ridge said he made a thorough study of the death scene at the Finch estate. He said he believes it was bleeding from Mrs.

bugaboo, colonialism. Possibly with this in mind, a good deal of Graham's time will be spent in conference with local missionaries and church leaders discussing problems peculiar to the continent in transition.

And, at each stop along the looping, nearly 10,000-mile swing, the local arrangement committees are headed by Africans, with white missionaries strictly in the background.

Graham himself is scheduled to make only 24 public appearances, the first Jan. 21 in Monrovia, Liberia. This is consistent with the new Graham technique initiated two years ago in the Caribbean area.

Space Heads Speculate On Soviet Plans

Think Testing May Be Man In Space Try

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Official sources speculated Friday that Russia's plans to test powerful new rockets in the Pacific mean the Soviets are preparing to put a man in space this year.

They raised the possibility that Russia is setting up a system to recover astronauts from manned satellites. The United States does not expect to put an astronaut into orbit until at least late 1961.

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) of the House Space Committee said Friday his group would open an "exhaustive" study of the U. S. space program on Jan. 13. A similar inquiry into this country's lag behind Russia has been scheduled by the Senate Space Committee.

AUTHORITY

One key U. S. space authority, commenting on the new Soviet tests, said "it would be extremely alert, starting right now, for news that the Russians had put a man in a rocket."

The Russians announced Thursday night that Soviet scientists will test fire a series of powerful rockets in the central Pacific between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15. It asked foreign governments to keep ships and planes out of the test area.

The Russians said the new rockets were designed to launch heavy satellites or to reach other planets. All Moscow newspapers carried the news of the projected tests on their front pages, emphasizing the importance attached by the Soviets to the tests.

FAA Notes Some Jets Are Flown Too Fast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Agency says a number of jet airliners are being flown faster than is safe.

The agency has ordered its inspectors to monitor speed control practices closely.

And, in a notice to FAA regional administrators, the agency said information gathered from flight recorders on jet planes showed that safe speeds were being exceeded "in a large percentage of flights with a frequency which is alarming because of the hazardous implications involved in exceeding design loads."

NOTICE

The FAA notice, signed by Ward B. Masden, chief of the operations division, said one reason for exceeding safe speeds may be that pilots are not thoroughly indoctrinated with their significance and don't understand them.

Inspectors were ordered to make sure that pilots are familiar with operating speeds and their significance.

Masden said that U. S.-built planes have long proved dependable and rugged, and this record on older aircraft may have lulled pilots into a false sense of security when operating the newer prop-jet and pure-jet planes.

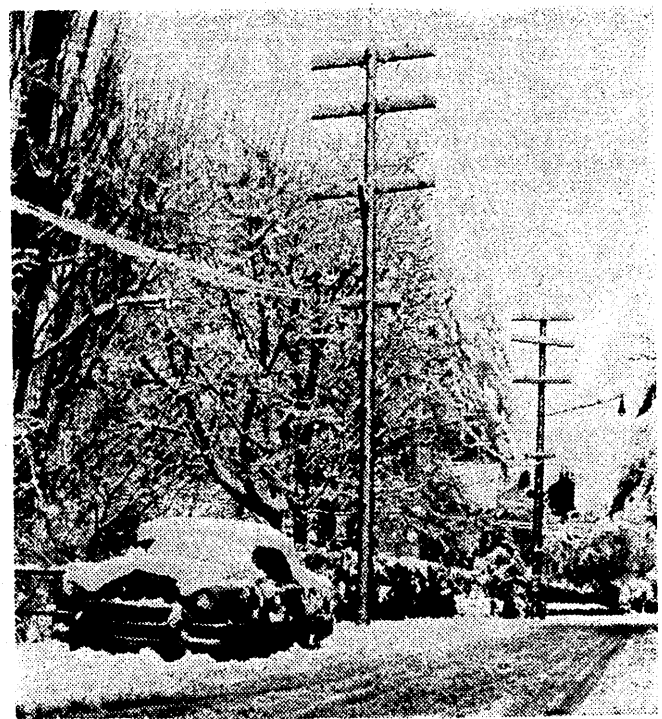

Two speed limits are involved—the maximum speed which should not be exceeded during normal operations, and the maximum speed which should never be exceeded even in an emergency.

Masden said that there has been a substantial margin of about 20 per cent, in the past, between these speeds, but that manufacturers of most jet aircraft have used a smaller spread.

This results in a smaller margin of safety than in the older airplanes.

SNOW HITS PORTLAND—The first snow storm of the season hit Portland yesterday. About seven inches fell, snarling traffic and forcing closure of a number of outlying schools. More is expected today. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW COLD WAVE DUE

U.S. Weather Offers Variety

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Gusty winds skipped across the northern tier of the nation Friday. Heavy snow fell over Oregon, Vermont and northern Maine.

Traffic in Portland, Ore., was snarled by the unexpected snowstorm as more than 3 inches tied up automobiles and buses. Forecasters warned that more snow was due.

It was below zero in northern Maine and about 5 inches of snow fell there. Vermont got a 4-inch fall.

MILD

The Weather Bureau expected that a spell of mild weather in the remainder of New England would be routed during the night by below-freezing temperatures in the southern part of the area and near-zero readings in the north.

As high winds whipped the northern tier of states gusts nearing 50 miles an hour were recorded at Binghamton, N.Y., Detroit, Chardon, Neb., and Rawlins, Wyo. Chicago had winds of up to 30 m.p.h.

Generally fair weather spread from the southern Rock Mountain states into the southern half of the plains. Sunny skies stretched from the Gulf region into the middle and south Atlantic states.

The sunshine, however, failed to push noon temperature readings above the zero mark in northern Minnesota.

Milder temperatures were recorded in the East with the 40s reported as far north as Massena, N.Y.

Sixty and 70-degree temperatures again were noted in Florida, while the 20s and 30s were common over the Rockies. Near the West Coast, readings ranged from the 30s and a few 40s in the north to the 50s in California.

LUZON TRIBES

Veteran Hunters Becoming Hunted

MANILA (AP)—For centuries the head-hunting Ilongot tribes in the wild north of the Philippines' main island of Luzon were considered part of the country's colorful, romantic background. But times have changed. The government is taking a dimmer view, and troops are out after the Ilongots.

The old idea was, after all, the taking of heads was linked chiefly with a marriage ritual. A young Ilongot brave had to prove his manhood by depositing a freshly cut head at the door of his prospective bride.

Few Christian settlers ventured into Ilongot territory in the forested hills of Nueva Vizcaya and Nueva Ecija Provinces. Missionaries died—and some of them never came back.

Nomination Tantamount To Election

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana, filled with hip-shooting politics, votes for a new governor Saturday with the choice between DeLesseps Morrison, aggressive New Orleans mayor, and former Gov. Jimmie Davis, a singer who promises political harmony.

The winner in this Democratic runoff is certain to succeed fiery Gov. Earl K. Long, dumped at the polls in Dec. 5 first primary after his mental hospital episodes last summer. Such a nomination in overwhelmingly Democratic Louisiana is tantamount to election.

Morrison, 47, a balding widower with three children, is a Roman Catholic and a hard-working architect of progress in the state's largest city. The hard-hitting Morrison challenged the old political taboos against a Catholic or a New Orleans governor.

GOVERNOR

Louisiana hasn't selected a Catholic governor since Stephen McChesney in 1884. And it hasn't elected a governor from New Orleans since John M. Parker in 1920.

Davis, 53, a political diplomat with a sound fiscal record during his 1944-48 regime, built a powerful coalition after the downfall of the Long dynasty.

Even the defeated Gov. Long broke a month-long silence to say he is voting for Davis. Both Davis and Long are Baptists.

Long failed Dec. 5 when he tried to name former Gov. James A. Noe his successor. Noe ran a poor fourth. Long finished third in a six-man fight for Lieutenant governor.

Now Long's a cold-shouldered, lame duck waiting for his term to end in May. With the sole exception of the stormy Long, Morrison and Davis are the two biggest political headlines in Louisiana since the days of the late Huey P. Long.

Both are widely known, their

Monroe's Bond Rating Soars To 'Class A' Level

Monroe's municipal bond rating soared yesterday to a "Class A rating"—placing the city in a much more favorable position for next Tuesday's sale of $6 million worth of revenue bonds.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard announced that the firm of Standard and Poor of New York City has given Monroe a Class A rating for its bonds.

Only two firms in the nation rate municipal bonds. This is the first time in many years that the city's rating has improved.

Such ratings have a bearing on the amount of interest which a city must pay on revenue bonds. The excellent condition of the city was responsible for the new rating. Howard supplied information on Monroe's general growth, business conditions, financial condition and revenue.

Next Tuesday, at a regular meeting of the City Council, bids will be received on $5½ million worth of revenue bonds for expansion of the power plant, and on $½ million of ad valorem bonds.

The half million will be used as the city's contribution towards construction of the new underpass

New Bill To Be Aimed At Loan Sharks

WASHINGTON (Special)—Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) said Friday he will help sponsor a bill to make loan sharks and fast-talking salesmen spell out finance charges and interest rates on consumer loans.

He said the bill will cover short term loans and time purchases of automobiles, appliances, homes and other articles.

"The ordinary man is not able to understand the time print in many of the contracts which he signs," Long said. "In some cases the buyer will end up paying more for the interest and other carrying charges than he pays for the original article."

PROVISIONS

If the bill passes, any consumer loan would have to be accompanied by a statement of the total interest, carrying charges and other amounts added to the loan itself.

Long said the bill is particularly important "in this time of tight money and high interest rates." He said the government is now forced to pay over five percent simple annual interest on many bonds, and large corporations with top credit ratings will soon be paying five and one-half per cent on bank loans. "The American consumer," he said, "will have to pay far more than this for most of his money needs. When, through trickery, he ends up paying 30 per cent to 40 per cent annual interest for small loans, it is time that the Congress stepped in to insure the consumer knows what he is getting into."

"This matter of high interest rates is one of our most pressing problems at present. Making it mandatory for the sources of consumer credit to let their customers know how much annual interest they are paying is one way of holding interest rates down."

Sat. Deadline For Twirling Entries At NE

Saturday, Jan. 16, is the deadline for North Louisiana schools to enter outstanding baton twirlers in halftime shows at Northeast Louisiana State College home basketball games.

Invitations were sent recently to more than 160 area schools. Marcus Mapp, chairman of halftime activities, said the top twirlers at the shows will compete at Northeast's last home game on Feb. 25.

The competition will be divided into a junior group from the seventh through ninth grades and a senior group from the 10th through 12th grades. Mapp urged that entries be submitted to Northeast as soon as possible.

Skin Divers Bring Man To Surface Dead

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP)—A commercial diver, dangling by his air hose after a falling object cut his heavy lifeline and telephone connection Friday was brought to the surface dead by skin divers.

Clarence Shaw of Pasco, Wash., a contract diver, had been about two hours on the upstream face of Priest Rapids Dam when the falling object severed his lifeline. It apparently knocked him off a platform, a spokesman for the Grant County Public Utility District said.

Defense Site Has Openings For Enlistees

With the opening of a U.S. Army Air Defense Command Nike Site at Bellevue, La., the local U.S. Army recruiting officer has announced that newest enlistees are given a chance to serve Army duty "near home" at the new base.

M-Sgt. Quillie N. Underwood, Monroe Army Recruiter and Career Guidance Counselor, that the new site, near Shreveport and Bossier City, has openings for 35 enlistments, which will be assigned to individuals on a "first come, first served" basis.

With this "serve near home" program, the recruiter said, an enlistee may serve three full years entirely in Louisiana, while receiving on-the-job training in the field of electronics or guided missiles.

Skindivers, called from nearby Moses Lake, secured a heavy line around Shaw. The diver, clad in a deep sea diving suit, was hauled to the surface.

Shaw had been checking a generator inlet on the dam's water face when the object ripped through his lifeline and telephone connection.

Texas Blast

Damaging But Nobody Injured

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP)—An earth-shaking explosion at the Army's Longhorn Ordnance works caused considerable damage but no injuries Friday.

Lt. Col. John E. Harrison, who commands the installation, said the blast ripped through a remote control mixing station which produces solid rocket propellant fuel. Thiokol Chemical Corp. is the civilian contract operator of the plant for the Army. It employs about 1,500 workers in the operation at Karnack, 15 miles northeast of Marshall near the Louisiana line.

Harrison said there would be no official estimate of the damage of a further report giving any details.

FOR PRISON CHEF

Man Leaves Jail With Kind Word

LONDON (AP)—Gentle, 62-year-old Hugh Lanfear, who learned to love liberty in the United States, has come out of London's Brixton Jail with a kind word for the prison chef.

"The jail was splendid, and I commend the cooking," he said today. "That talented man in the kitchen does fish a dozen different ways."

A property owner at Crawley, a new model community south of London, Lanfear was an extraordinary prisoner. He got into jail because of principle—and refusal to pay taxes—and he enjoyed his five-week stay.

Lanfear said he lived in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Philadelphia and came back to his native England in 1931 because his British wife couldn't stand the heat of those East Coast summers. He is a widower now.

Lanfear got into jail because of a clash with the civic planners who built the Crawley community. The planners had legal authority to buy whatever land the architects needed, and they fixed their own prices. They offered Lanfear 830 pounds—$2,324—for seven acres which he contended were worth 5,000 pounds—$14,000.

There wasn't anything he could do about the seven acres, but he was able to make a stand when he got a tax bill for 50 pounds—$140—from the Horsham Council. He didn't pay it. He demanded justice.

Magistrates—who didn't seem to like doing what they did—ordered Lanfear to jail for two months as a tax-dodger.

Then 1,000 of Lanfear's neighbors started agitation and signed petitions. The magistrates here moved. Lanfear, who had served only five weeks, was released. He left Brixton Thursday with some reluctance.

He was put into a hospital block during his stay there. "Like a lush hotel," he said. "Private room, magazines, and a jolly good Christmas dinner. After the dinner I summoned the deputy warden—everybody came running when I raised a thumb—and I asked him to convey my thanks and appreciation to the prison chef."

Authorities Clear Widow In Slay Case

King and Kelly had argued over the affair, officers said, and Kelly once quit his job, only to return to work a few weeks later.

Highway patrol inspector Gwin Cole identified the two Negroes involved as Alec Morris, 49, and Pink Townsend, 25, and said both signed statements that they beat and stabbed Kelly at the courthouse.

King, Morris, Townsend and a Negro woman, Liza McKay, 66, were brought to the Leflore County jail. She was held as a material witness.

Kelly, working late Saturday night at the sheriff's office, was slugged repeatedly with a hammer and stabbed about 20 times in the neck and back, officers said. His body was found early Sunday by King and a deputy.

Monroe's Bond Rating Soars To 'Class A' Level

at S. Second Street and the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Howard explained that the city sells bonds to obtain money, and then pays this money back with interest over a certain period. The sale is like a loan of money, which must be repaid with interest.

However, different bidders offer to lend the money to the city at different interest rates. After consideration by city attorneys, the bid which is most favorable to the city will be accepted.

"The improved rating which we received from Standard and Poor should have a favorable effect on the bids which will be submitted next Tuesday," Howard said.

He pointed out that, "Generally speaking, an A bond carries a lower rate of interest than does Class B. We have no way of telling what affect our new rating actually will have on the bids next Tuesday, but bidders normally offer a lower rate of interest on Class A ratings than on B's."

For the past several months, Monroe has made efforts to get a better rating for its bonds. Howard, accompanied by City Attorney Haynes Harkney Jr., went to New York City twice last year and placed facts on the city before the two firms which give bond ratings.

However, the other firm maintained its old rating of "B-AA" for Monroe.

"We had hoped for a Class A ratings from both rating houses at the same time. We are extremely pleased to learn that we have accomplished 50 per cent of the battle. We feel that in the near future, the other company also will give us a Class A rating," the Mayor stated.

Money procured from the next bond sale will be used for a 22,000 KW (kilowatt) generating unit, to increase the power generating capacity at the municipal power plant.

It also will go to increase facilities for the water system going into the plant.

The $30,000 worth of bond money will be the city's share toward constructing the underpass on S. Second Street. The state and the Missouri-Pacific will share in the cost.

on ice from the sky may be clarified in a couple of weeks at a meeting of the interested agencies. These include the Federal Aviation Agency, the Weather Bureau, and the Geological Survey.

Explaining the veil of secrecy, one official said the government must be careful about what it gives out because whatever it says conceivably could affect law suits that may develop from similar ice falls.

It was suggested that some citizens may take a dim view of having their property and/or persons pelted with ice and go roaring into court to seek redress from the pelt.

So it cannot be stated positively and officially at this time that the Georgia ice fell from a passing airplane, but an FAA official conceded "this has happened before."

Surgeon Gives Death Account

An earlier witness said Mrs. Finch ran from the garage with the doctor in pursuit.

Dr. Ridge, testifying in soft, professorial tones, added:

"From the character of the terrain from the driveway to the surface of the lawn on which the body was found, it is very likely the bullet wound was sustained prior to her arrival at the bottom of the steps."

"After the wound was sustained, with accompanying rapid bleeding from the perforation of the pulmonary artery, her ability to travel after the wound was sustained would have been measured in a few steps only."

"Shot and bleeding at that point, it would have been impossible for her to navigate down the rough, irregular bank."

Ridge said the skull fracture suffered in the garage could have been caused either by her head being smashed against the garage wall or by being struck with a pistol. The state introduced a photograph showing a dent in the plasterboard wall of the garage, and Ridge testified that it was at height where it could have been caused by the woman's head.

The autopsy surgeon said neither of the fractures was serious enough to cause death.

Mrs. Finch was dying, the surgeon said, when she fell and fractured her skull the second time.

He also said she suffered nearly a score of lesser injuries during violence preceding her death.

The defense once offered to stipulate that Dr. Finch had shot his wife, apparently intending to call it accidental or self defense. The prosecution rejected the offer.

The state contends Dr. Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, coolly plotted and carried out the slaying of Mrs. Finch, 36.

Long-Secret Report Aired

submitted to Mississippi Gov. J. P. Coleman at the conclusion of a two months' investigation by up to 60 FBI agents last spring and summer. Coleman kept the report secret but turned it over to district and county attorneys at Poplarville at the time the Pearl River County grand jury met in November. The state and county prosecutors said they would submit the FBI findings only if the grand jury requested the report, and call FBI agents to testify only if the grand jury wished to hear them. No FBI agents were called and the county grand jury did not receive the FBI report.

The Justice Department immediately re-entered the case following the county grand jury's report.

Judge Sidney Mize, who convened the federal grand jury at the request of the Justice Department, instructed the 23-member panel this week that it could indict on civil rights or conspiracy charges only if a law officer was involved, or conspired with the mob.

He also said that the only other possible federal charge would be under the federal Lindbergh kidnapping law which could be used only if Parker was taken across a state line. The Pearl River, in which his body was found, is on the Louisiana-Mississippi border.

The FBI report contains a statement from a farmer who said Parker's abductors drove him across the Pearl River bridge into Louisiana before he was slain.

Veteran Hunters Becoming Hunted

troopers to the area, hoping they could keep the peace.

Reports filtering back to Manila told of an ambush here, a raid there, a few more settlers beheaded.

Longots had learned bols weren't enough. They got themselves some guns. There was rarely any open fighting. They struck mostly from hiding, often a dozen longots against one or two Christians working their fields.

Last November the son of an longot chieftain tried to raid a government depot for arms. A police trooper shot him dead. The father came after the trooper and was killed, too. The longots went on the warpath of a big scale.

They roamed in bands of 20 or 30, each brave done up in war paint with skull-and-crossbones on his forehead. In six weeks they killed and beheaded a dozen Christians. And they let it be known they were out for more. An old tribal custom was recalled, which demanded 32 Christian lives for every longot killed.

The settlers demanded protection, and the government grew alarmed. The army stepped in and formed a special task force, spearheaded by a combat company. Longots who had taken up Christian ways were enlisted as scouts, guides and couriers. The longots struck back by capturing 30 of them. At last report they were still being held hostage.

No one knows how long it will take the army to stop the longots. No one knows if they can be stopped. But the government has decided it can do without head-hunting.

Nomination Tantamount To Election

campaigns are highly organized, and the race appears to be a tight one.

Morrison led Davis by 65,000 ballots when he gained a total of 278,956 in the first primary as the two easily topped a record 11-man field. The runoff ballot may exceed the record 842,609 in the first primary. The forecast calls for generally fair weather.

Labor strife and how best to preserve segregation formed the key runoff issues. Davis accused Morrison of being a tool of Teamster President James Hoffa and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The AFL-CIO state group joined Davis with wild cries against Hoffa, who tried personally to invade Baton Rouge and organized the big Esso Standard Oil refinery.

Davis also picked up the endorsement of State Sen. William Rainach, the segregation champion who finished a strong third in the race for governor with 143,000 votes. But all Rainach's leaders didn't agree and split with him.

Years ago, Davis eased taut war nerves in Louisiana with his campaign blend of polite politics and his singing of his own hit, "You Are My Sunshine." He campaigned with a guitar - thumping, hillybilly band.

Now he wants to bring four years of "peace and harmony" after the tumult of the Long administration.

Although one of 11 children of a sharecropper, the well-dressed, well-poised Davis is no hillbilly. He has a master's degree in education and psychology.

He never lost an election and has served as Shreveport court clerk, city commissioner and state Public Service Commissioner.

The same post that Huey Long used to start his public career.

Morrison scored Davis for refusing to accept his challenges to debate and called him the phantom of the empty chair. He carried around in his campaign an empty chair with a guitar placed in the seat as a symbol of his rival.

And Morrison hammered away that Davis, singer of gospel and cowboy songs, once wrote a book of dirty ditties.

Basically, the mayor, who is strongly supported in his own city and vote-heavy southern Louisiana, appealed to the Catholic south and the Protestant north alike to let him build Louisiana industrially with the same vigor he used in New Orleans.

The Republican nominee, Francis Grevenberg, who changed sides after running fourth in the 1956 Democratic sprint for governor, and Kent H. Courtney, States Rights candidate, will face the Democratic nominee in the April 19 general election.

Voting booths open at 6 a. m. Saturday and close at 8 p.m. The balloting also will decide runoffs for the legislature and six state offices.

A Morrison or Davis victory will depend on what support they gained from the more than 300,000 ballots cast in the first primary for Rainach, Noe and state comptroller William Dodd, third, fourth and fifth respectively in the first primary.

As one example of the splitup of Long officials this time, attorney general Jack Gremlillon, a Long candidate in 1956, won on the Davis ticket in the first primary.

Agriculture Commissioner Sidney McCrory, another Long candidate in 1956, lost his first primary battle and tossed his support to the Morrison candidate, George Shannon of New Orleans.

Both Republican and States Rights candidates are preparing to launch their campaigns once the Democratic choice is made.

For the first time this century, Louisiana is likely to see a spirited campaign leading to the April 19 general election. Previously, a general election for governor always has been a formality.

Morrison became involved this week in a defamation trial he brought against William Donnels, publisher of the Federationist, a labor newspaper. The trial was continued until Tuesday.

The mayor accused Donnels of publishing that Morrison was associated with Communists or Fellow Travelers.

During the court hearing, Morrison said his secretary, Mrs. Rosalie Grad, once told him she had been a member of the Southern Conference on Human Welfare, listed by a Congressional committee as a Red front group.

Morrison emphasized she got out years ago when she learned it was a superlateral outfit.

While Davis is supported by Sen. Rainach and many Rainach leaders, Attorney W. M. Shaw of Homer, a top Rainach whip, refused to go along with the Rainach endorsement of Davis and he caused a splinter movement.

Shaw predicted 60 per cent or more of the 143,000 voters who backed Rainach would stay away from the polls this time and swing to the States Rights candidate, Courtney, in the April general election.

"We can't support either Morrison or Davis," Shaw said in a statement, "because Morrison is backed by National Committee-man Camille Gravel, a notorious integrationist, while Davis is backed by former national committeeman Frank Ellis, another integrationist who was responsible for Gravel's election as national committeeman."

Grevenberg, the GOP nominee, asserted "along with other citizens of Louisiana, I will be most happy when this outlandish promise contest is over. Both Democratic hopefuls know that when added up, their multitude of promises would be impossible to finance with present state revenues or any projected revenues in the future."

Morrison and Davis each are backing six candidates for state offices in the runoff. With Morrison candidates first and Davis' colleagues second, they are:

Mayor W. George Bowdon, Alexandria, and Rep. C. C. Aycock, Franklin, for lieutenant governor. Mrs. Marion C. Henderson, Colfax, and Mayor Roy Theriot, Abbeville, state comptroller.

George W. Shannon, New Orleans, and Dave Pearce, Baton Rouge, agriculture commissioner.

Fred C. Dent Jr. and Mrs. Ellen Bryan Moore, both of Baton Rouge, register of state land office.

Paul C. Tate, Mamou, and Rufus D. Hayes, Baton Rouge, state insurance commissioner.

David Chennault, Monroe, and Douglas Fowler, Coushatta, state voting machine custodian.

Good Citizens Vote!

Today is the day! It is election day, the day we must decide who will be our next governor and who will be our state and parish officials for the next four years.

Are we all going to do our share today or are we going to "let George do it," which simply means doing nothing.

Those who fail to vote on election day are low-rating themselves. They are saying they don't know enough to try to keep our government at a high level or that they don't care enough.

Voting is one of the most potent tests of good citizenship. We might talk for a month about bad government without doing as much good as we can do in the few minutes it takes us to go by the voting booths and cast our ballots.

Again, we would like to point out that the section of the state which has the highest percentage of votes cast compared to the number of registered voters is the one wielding the most influence, percentage-wise.

One of the candidates for governor has been trying to turn the present race into a contest between north Louisiana and south Louisiana. He has intimated that he will give the best of everything to south Louisiana because he is a south Louisianian and because he claims most of Louisiana's governors have been from the northern part of the state and that they have favored north Louisiana.

There was no reason to inject sectionalism into the race but the mayor of New Orleans did so for the apparent reason that he thought this would give him a larger percentage of the New Orleans votes. Since he apparently has turned against this part of the state, it behooves those who want an unprejudiced governor to go to the polls and cast their ballots.

The larger percentage of votes cast in the north part of the state the better this section is likely to fare when the election returns are counted.

The Monroe Morning World is supporting Jimmie Davis for governor for many good reasons, which can be summed up by saying he will make the cleanest governor, the most capable governor and the best governor.

Other members of the Davis ticket are also being supported for good reasons. All members of the ticket have held either high elective or appointive offices and several are running for re-election.

C. C. "Taddy" Aycock has served as a member of the house under two administrations and was speaker of the house in the 1952-1956 administration. He is the candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Roy R. Theriot has been mayor of Abbeville for eight years and has operated that thriving south Louisiana city in a splendid manner. He seeks the post of state comptroller.

Dave L. Pearce, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, served in that position under appointments by both Governor Long and Governor Kennon, although Long and Kennon headed opposing political factions.

Ellen Bryan Moore, candidate for state land register, was elected to that position in 1952 and served her full term with great credit.

Rufus D. Hayes, candidate for insurance commissioner, now holds that office by appointment and is well qualified by experience to fill it.

Douglas Fowler, candidate for custodian of voting machines, is another member of the Davis ticket who is seeking re-election.

Again we urge every registered voter in this area to cast a ballot in today's election, no matter what his political views may be. Voting is an act of good citizenship for all who vote to the best of their ability and in accordance with the dictates of their consciences.

Be a good citizen today.

Fear And Red Tactics

While Soviet Premier Khrushchev claims Russia is moving ahead with disarmament, his Communist partner nation, Red China, is employing a weapon of another shading—fear—in the Far East.

A recent issue of the publication "International Problems Research" uprated the U.S. casualties of the Korean War. The writing went on to propagandize the "police action" as a test of strength which the North Koreans and Red Chinese passed with flying colors according to their own reckoning.

"It was a great victory for the Korean and Chinese people," the article stated. "In those three years, the Chinese and Korean peoples' armies annihilated 1,090,000 enemy troops including 390,000 American soldiers, shot down or damaged 12,000 enemy planes and destroyed or captured 3,000 enemy tanks.

"The victory of the Korean and Chinese people told the world that American imperialism need not be feared; it was nothing but a paper tiger which was outwardly ferocious but inwardly cowardly," the magazine declared.

The strong anti-American tone of the publication is typical of Red China's policy and attitude towards the United States that revolutionary government has held since it came into being in 1946. It is a study in the militant attitude assumed by all Communist nations soon after they come into being. Russia was equally outspoken in the early 1920's. It is an unlooked statement of future intentions.

Following the downfall of the czarist government in Russia — which was not brought about by the Communists but by a short-lived republic — the Bolsheviks moved in with violence. Throughout Europe during the 1920's, the Communist leaders used the tactics of bluff and terror. "Blood must flow," was the motto aimed at terrorizing opposition in France, Poland, Italy, Czechoslovakia and elsewhere. It is significant that the countries with any economic and patriotic sinews overcame the bluff, and it was not until the allies drove the Germans out of eastern Europe during World War II that the Communists were able to make substantial gains.

Red China is fully aware that United States casualties during the Korean War amounted to 157,530. According to Defense Department figures, 33,629 died in action; 20,617 died from accidents, wounds and illness and there were 103,284 non-fatal wounds. These run too high to be figures "toned down" to minimize the Korean War.

The statements in the Communist publication show the period of bluff and terror is now being pushed by Red China. It will be the responsibility of surrounding nations: Japan, South Korea, India, the Philippines, Nationalist China and others in southeast Asia to supply the moral resistance to further Communist aggression in that part of the world.

Nearly two-thirds of all iron ore in the United States comes from the Lake Superior region.

Canada's Jewish population is about 250,000, of whom some 50,000 arrived since the end of World War II.

Almost half of the nation's 12½ million stockholders have household incomes of $5,000 to $10,000 a year.

A recent survey found that 31 per cent of all Austrians between the ages of 30 and 39 play at least one musical instrument.

Cancer-Cure Contract Let

Raises Question Of Patent-Right Privileges For Discoveries Made At Public Expense

The government has granted a large-scale contract to a private industry to discover a cancer cure. If one is found, the research company gets monopoly rights to exploit the product.

Another vast research study being made at public expense is proving methods of controlling weather. Any discoveries that are made remain the exclusive property of the private researcher.

These two contracts were awarded by the National Science Foundation, but a similar free hand with patent rights to discoveries made at the taxpayer's expense occur repeatedly in the Pentagon's research efforts.

Whether private companies should receive patent privileges to inventions which they did not pay to develop is a question of growing concern to congress and the administration. A wealth of new information on the confused patent policies has developed in the wake of small business committee hearings conducted recently by Senator Russell B. Long (D-La.).

The senator is primarily interested in effect of the Pentagon's patent policies on the small businessman, who is confronted by a bureaucratic maze of conflicting policies if he sets out to manufacture a product for which he, as a taxpayer, has paid the development costs.

The senator is also concerned for fear that private research firms go to such lengths to hide their findings from potential competitors that the flow of scientific knowledge is hopelessly clogged.

One witness at the hearings testified that he knew of a research and production firm that values this type of information so highly that it spends large sums of money to get a scientific report two weeks or more ahead of publication in learned journals. The same firm delays release of its own findings from one to two years.

This type of thing, Long says, "has put us two to three years behind the Russians in the missile race."

Research and development is costing the American taxpayers more than $7 billion a year, and more than half of this goes to private research companies. Only a trickle of the research contracts are awarded to small businesses.

These are mostly "cost-plus" contracts, reimbursing the researcher for his expense and a fixed profit percentage. The atomic energy commission, the national aeronautics and space agency, and the agriculture department retain for the government all patent rights to anything invented under a research contract. As a rule, anyone who spots commercial sales possibilities in one of the inventions can manufacture it.

The defense department retains the patent rights only for military purposes. If an invention has a civilian application — as so many military discoveries do — the researcher gets a monopoly patent right for the product.

Lightweight radios, all-weather temporary housing, and many miracle drugs are examples of discoveries made by the military but in normal civilian use today.

The National Science Foundation, at least in some of its endeavor for the government. Disfranchises, reserves no rights whatsoever, a spokesman casually explained to the astounded senator that no company was interested in tackling the research job if patent rights were not forthcoming. The researcher is not even required to supply any scientific data to the foundation.

An effort is under way in congress to adopt a uniform patent policy for all government-sponsored research. Rep. Harris McDowell (D) Del., has introduced a bill reintroducing all patent rights for Uncle Sam.

He points to the British experience on one discovery — a jet engine developed with a parliamentary grant. The government's share of the royalties on manufacture of the engine has repaid the cost of the research.

The United States had a similar experience. The general service administration acquired patent rights to some automotive inventions from the war assets administration after World War II.

GSA put the patent up for sale but got only two bids — one for $25,000 and one for $5,000. Both were rejected as too low and since that time GSA has collected $3 million in royalties on the patents.

The opposition to McDowell's bill has become increasingly more vocal since Long's hearings threw a spotlight on the problem.

Most of the research firms doing business with the Pentagon claim that changing the present patent policy would hamper research because companies would not be interested in bidding on research contracts without the inducement of possible profits on civilian production.

Emerson Reichard of the Aerojet-General Corporation told the committee that "rights in inventions made by the contractor are a part of the consideration bargained for by the government."

The atomic energy commission, however, awards no patent rights and told the committee it has had no trouble finding firms to do its research. Whether the AEC is in a favored position because of the nature of its research was not determined.

Thyroid Trouble

Woman Is Unable To Determine What Causes Great Fatigue

"Am I sick or am I well? That's the question," asks Mr. K. H. O. of Washington, D. C.

"A few months ago I went for a checkup because I was feeling tired. No other complaint. The doctor found everything all right except that I had a basal metabolism of minus 10.

"He said that it was a borderline reading. The only way to make sure, he said, was to take thyroid for a while. I did, but the tiredness didn't go away. He stopped the thyroid. Now he says the tiredness is due to emotional reasons. He has put me on a sedative.

"Frankly, I have not been so exhausted. What bothers me, though is that: have I or haven't I got trouble with my thyroid? After all the reading was minus. Doesn't that automatically mean that the gland is underactive? Mr. K. H. O.

ANSWER: Years ago we relied upon clinical judgment alone (physical examination) to arrive at the proper diagnosis of thyroid complaints. We had no laboratory or instrument help. If Mr. Smith had stary eyes; if his pulse were fast; if he had a large thyroid; if he was nervous; if his skin was hot and moist and he perspired easily; we made a diagnosis of hyperthyroidism (over-active thyroid).

If Mrs. Jones came in complaining of dry skin and hair; of fatigue; heavy lids and sleepiness; of loss of memory; slow pulse; of complaints against cold (when it was warm for everyone else); we made a diagnosis of hypothyroidism (under-active thyroid).

These days, we don't guess. Mr. K. H. O. We still do a careful physical examination; but we have other evidence. For example we do basal metabolism tests. If they are either over plus 15 or below minus 15 we become suspicious of over or under active thyroid gland. If we are still doubtful, we order a protein bound iodine test. (A blood examination in laboratory). And if still not quite sure, we order a radioactive iodine uptake. (Which measures the amount of iodine the gland can absorb.)

I believe your problem is best summed up by a recent paper in the Annals of Internal Medicine, written by Hugh F. Luddecke, M.D., of Morristown, N.J.:

"The diagnosis of typical thyroid dysfunction is usually not difficult when approached from either a clinical or a laboratory viewpoint. There are, however, some patients in whom hypothyroidism or hyperthyroidism is suspected, but the clinical picture is not complete or clear, and the laboratory tests are in disagreement . . .

"We have performed three tests of thyroid function — BMR (basal metabolism test), PBI (protein bound iodine) and RAI (radioactive iodine) — on a series of patients referred to this hospital for one of these three tests. Our results indicate a 10 per cent error rate for the BMR, 6 per cent for the RAI, and 2.5 per cent for the PBI.

"We believe that for a routine test for the PBI (protein bound iodine) is to be preferred because it is slightly less subject to error, easier for the patient and, in our hospital, is less expensive.

2nd Steel Crisis

Companies And Workers Must Stave Off Foreign Competition

Now that the steel companies and steelworkers finally have worked out a wage contract, it is imperative that they get together and work out a solution to a basic, mounting and long-term challenge — soaring competition from foreign steelmakers in our own and in the world markets.

This moment of national rejoicing over the steel settlement is hardly the right time for rehashing 1959's charges and countercharges over the reasons why foreign steel has been pouring into our land or the extent to which the inflow is threatening American jobs, paychecks and profits. This climactic moment is the right time, though, to put some facts about the imports into the record and to weigh their meaning.

Foreign steel has been pouring into our country at an unprecedented rate in the past couple of years. It is utterly folly to blame the inflow entirely on conditions connected with the prolonged strike.

Increasing numbers of steel mills in industrialized England, Germany, France, Belgium, Japan are new, modern, automated. Their steel is distinctly competitive in quality and price with ours.

The tycoons running these mills are on a deliberate drive to penetrate our markets, gain U. S. customers and keep them.

To hold their U. S. customers and get new ones, the European steelmakers are following an old-fashioned "capitalistic" pricing policy. They are ready and willing to cut prices to serve their long-term aims.

Direct imports of steel are only part of the story. Indirectly, more and more foreign steel is coming into our land in the form of foreign-produced cars, typewriters, machine tools, etc.

At the same time, our exports of steel have gone into a nosedive. Our sales of steel in the world's markets are shrinking while our own market is opening wider than ever to the foreign-made metal.

We dare not sit back and scoff at the trend, we dare not act the role of cry-baby about it. We must not turn to the time-dishonored "correctives" of higher tariffs, quotas, the like.

Rather, the answers must be the time-honored ones: Our own mills must become more efficient, competitive. Our own producers must find new markets for steel. The price of our steel must be determined against the background of world competition as well as domestic demand.

Of course, everything is just dandy right now. Our steel mills will be working at top capacity for months to meet current demands, refill pipelines and warehouses. The problem today is scarcely one of getting enough customers for U. S.-produced steel.

But this is the short-range, not the long-range pattern.

Do you have any idea of how much steel has been flowing in? Last year, imports totaled 4,000,000 tons, almost double the amount ever sent here in a year. In the past two years imports have risen over 300 per cent. Many U. S. industrialists have been introduced to foreign steel for the first time, and their response has been provocatively favorable.

Do you have any concept of how much Europe has raised its production efficiency? New, fully-integrated steel mills have been going up in just about every country. U. S. experts say flatly that some of the mills make many of ours look antiquated.

Do you have a clear picture of their pricing policy? Early last year foreign steel prices were well below ours — but during the strike they marched right up to our levels. Now they're being "cashed" again. This is opportunistic pricing — and let's not kid ourselves about it.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Fight On DeSapio

Reform Democrats Hope To Depose Him By Splitting Party

The Ordeal of Adlai

The Reform Democrats in New York, led by Eleanor Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman, are seeking control of the New York State delegation to the Democratic Convention in the interest of Adlai Stevenson. They have organized to depose Carmine DeSapio, Democratic National Committeeman, and Michael H. Prendergast, Democratic state chairman. DeSapio is the leader of the Democratic party in New York State and is called by the Reformers a Tammany Boss.

The quarrels are likely to split the Democratic party in New York State sufficiently to insure a Republican victory. Some contend that that is what they hope will happen because another defeat will depose Carmine DeSapio finally and give the control of the Democratic party in New York State to Thomas K. Finletter, their choice.

They call their organization the New York Committee for Democratic Voters. The chairman of the executive committee is Irving M. Engel, a lawyer who has been president of the American Jewish Committee but has had no important experience heretofore in Democratic politics. He will be assisted by George Backer, an associate of former Governor Averell Harriman. Backer has long sought to play a leading role in New York Democratic politics. He was at one time married to Dorothy Schiff, owner of the "New York Post," a Liberal newspaper.

In political circles it is generally believed that the objective of this group is to gain the New York State delegation for Adlai Stevenson as the Democratic candidate for president. The theory is that should Stevenson be able to hold the New York delegation, he could capture California by offering the presidency to Governor Pat Brown and that Jacob Arvey will give him the Illinois delegation. This would bring him into the convention with an assured 284 delegates. Should a battle to the death be developed, Stevenson could then get the nomination for a third time as a compromise.

On the other hand, practical politicians recognize that Stevenson has twice been defeated; that in the interim he has traveled about the country making speeches and about the world writing articles which make him a target for violent attack; that his intellectualism is no longer impressive; and that his wild inflationary ideas are a real menace at this time.

Therefore, the worst that can befall the Democratic party is that it will have on its hands another William Jennings Bryan whom the Republicans can defeat no matter whom they nominate. With so many Democrats offering themselves as candidates for the presidency, practical politicians wonder why they have to be troubled by Adlai Stevenson. In the spectrum from right to left, from Senator Lyndon Johnson to Senator Hubert Humphrey, there are enough candidates to choose from without going back to Stevenson.

However, Mrs. Roosevelt's influence is still considerable and looking at the names of Stevenson supporters, there will undoubtedly be ample money to continue an active campaign. In fact, this movement could be well financed out of New York.

Before the Eleanor Roosevelt-Herbert Lehman group intervened so actively and desperately on behalf of Stevenson, it was generally assumed that he would be got out of the way by making him secretary of state, a position for which he is eminently unfitted by the articles he wrote and the speeches he delivered. However, no secretary of state can do much mischief unless a president permits him to. Woodrow Wilson had William Jennings Bryan as a secretary of state but he managed so to circumvent Bryan that he quit in disgust. Franklin D. Roosevelt had Cordell Hull as his secretary of state but Roosevelt ran his own State Department, ignoring Hull except in one matter, the Hull-Reciprocal Trade Agreement. The ability of which is only now becoming clear in the endangered American dollar and the out-pricing of American goods in all markets.

Daily Devotional

Remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt. —Deuteronomy 5:15.

God freed Jewish slaves with His mighty hand and outstretched arm. When they were asked to observe and keep the Sabbath, they were reminded that it was only through His goodness that they were free. Our forefathers were also freed from religious and political tyranny and we are thus direct beneficiaries of God's goodness and mercy. Is it unreasonable for God to ask that we remember the Lord's Day and keep it holy? Is it too much to ask that we set aside one day in seven for church, meditation and service to God?

Heavenly Father, help us to be Thy willing followers and keep sacred Thy day of rest and worship. In Christ's holy name we pray. Amen.

ORPHANED GIRL

Survivor Of Crash Leaves Hospital

RUSTON (Special) —Ruston said goodbye to 11-year old Virginia Arnold yesterday. The little brown eyed girl, who was orphaned in a plane crash near Sibley that killed her father, mother and brother, departed to live with her grandmother in Duncan, Oklahoma.

Before leaving the Ruston hospital, Virginia managed a wan smile for a reporter and photographer. She left a score of friends in Ruston, many of whom visited her almost every day.

Virginia got out of the crash with no visible injuries. Her recovery was rapid, much faster and more complete than was expected. She came to the Ruston hospital with multiple skull fractures and was on the very critical list for two days.

Now Virginia is almost well. "This hurts the most," she said, exhibiting a damaged finger.

STAYED
Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ritter, Virginia's aunt and uncle who stayed here, again thanked Ruston citizens for their efforts in behalf of the little girl.

Rustonites who visited Virginia remember a soft-eyed child who rarely mentioned her bereavement, except to at times cry out suddenly in grief.

Throughout her stay at the hospital here, Virginia was never completely despondent. She even played a few spirited card games with relatives.

She left the hospital without mentioning the actual crash. Relatives hope she has forgotten, permanently.

WILL SAVE RENT

Commission Moves To New Offices

The Monroe Utilities Commission, including the auditing and purchasing departments, has moved into a new $33,395 building section at 211 Twelfth St. The move will save the city $2400 a year in rent.

French Smith, Commission General Manager, announced the move yesterday.

The new location actually is part of an existing utilities building, and was constructed between two wings of the other building.

SPACE
It includes 4,901 square feet, and has two floors.

"The move puts all the departments into one building, and makes it more convenient for the water and light departments," commented Smith.

Besides saving the city rent money, the move has given all departments sufficient space. Rent for the South Grand Street location has been $600 a month. The move cut the rent to $400 monthly for the commercial department and meter readers still quartered in the Penn Hotel structure.

Water and light bills still should be paid on South Grand Street, Smith said.

The modern brick structure was begun by H. W. Chapman contractor in September. Architect was King Stubbs. Cost for the building was $11 per square foot, including air conditioning and heating facilities.

The first floor includes offices for the accounting department, purchasing department, line superintendent W. T. Murphy, bookkeepers and secretaries, and Smith.

One-half of the upper floor is occupied by the engineering department. The other half is for the board of directors. "It also may be used for any public meetings by the city," Smith mentioned.

He recalled that the Board met in cramped quarters in the South Grand Street location, and said that often there was little room for bidders on commission projects to attend these Board meetings.

Five Hunters Are Charged In District

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — Five men making up two parties of night hunters were arrested here early Friday morning by state game agents, and charged with shooting deer from their automobiles.

A party composed of three Livingston men, possessing two dead does was arrested about 1:00 a.m. Friday by State game agent Harvey L. Spruill, and special agent R. J. Newman. The hunters were caught about eight miles northeast of St. Joseph on highway 65.

Marvin A. Efferson, 25, was charged with deer hunting in closed season, killing a doe, and fire hunting at night. The above charges were also lodged against Richard Bankston, 22, while Hurston Bankson, 19, was fined for fire hunting, and hunting out of season.

About 2:30 a.m. the same morning, Henry Campbell, 40, of Harvey, and Rev. R. H. Crowley, New Orleans, were apprehended with a dead doe in their possession.

Spruill said that 13 men had been arrested since Dec. 11 along a 10 mile stretch of highway 65, just north of St. Joseph. Of those caught, nine were in possession of dead deer.

"Our problem arose when the deer began feeding on the clover along the shoulders of the road," said Spruill. "The hunters usually wait until there is little traffic on the road, drive along until they spot their game, bag a deer, load it in their car, and try to make a quick get-away."

Fines against convicted offenders may range up to $250 each, according to officials, who remind aspiring night hunters that agents are on duty twenty-four hours a day.

AS CAMPAIGN ENDS

Victory Forecast By Jimmie Davis

By BILL LYNCH
Of Shreveport Times
MADISONVILLE — Jimmie Davis, singing his last song of the gubernatorial campaign, wound up here last night, and forecast a victory by more than 75,000 votes in today's second primary election.

The former governor said his margin "could easily pass the 150,000 mark."

After one final rendition of "You Are My Sunshine," Davis left for Shreveport where he will cast his vote today before going to New Orleans to await election returns.

TOURED
Davis toured the sixty congressional district in his final stump appearances. He and members of his ticket spoke at Tickfaw, Folsom, Abita Springs, Pearl River and Madisonville.

"Because of the type of campaign we conducted in the first primary," Davis said, "we now stand on the threshold of a great victory."

"It now appears that, because of increased support, we will lead my opponent and his ticket by at least 75,000 and maybe by as much as 150,000 votes."

Davis said, "I am grateful for the support you gave us during the first primary. I am grateful for the support we have received from those who supported defeated candidates."

He said that he never before had the kind of support that has joined his side in this campaign for the governorship.

"I have run for public office three times in the past and have been elected three times," he noted.

WIDOW OF SLAIN DEPUTY CLEARED — Mrs. Minnie Lee Kelly, wife of slain deputy sheriff William Kelly, clutches her 2 year old son after officers questioned her in the death of her husband. Former Montgomery County Sheriff Lawrence King, 51, has admitted to officers that he had a part in the slaying. Mrs. Kelly was arrested by the Highway Patrol yesterday and later released. Highway Patrol investigator Gwin Cole said it appeared to be a paid killing involving a love triangle. (AP Wirephoto)

WITHIN NEXT FEW MONTHS

Scandal Slated For Spotlighting

ROME (UPI)—The Wilma Montesi "Scandal of the Century"—the case that rocked a cabinet and a nation — will be in the headlines again soon.

The spotlight this time will be centered on handsome Giuseppe Montesi, uncle of the pretty brunette party girl whose half-nude body was found on a lonely Roman beach on April 11, 1953.

The uncle faces trial in the next few months on what technically is only a slander charge. But investigating magistrates have hinted that they believe Montesi knows more about his niece's death than he cares to say.

They said the only reason they did not bring more serious charges against him was that they could not prove with certainty that Wilma's death was a crime.

No date has been set for the trial of Montesi, a 35-year-old printing shop accountant. But prosecutor Giuseppe Mirabile recently deposited with the court a list of 60 persons he wants to call as witnesses and of 20 from who he intends to produce affidavits.

When 19-year-old Wilma Montesi's body was found on the beach almost seven years ago, police at first wrote off her death as accidental drowning.

"Black Swan" Anna Maria Montesi Caglio, then 23, exploded the scandal in 1954 by charging that Miss Montesi was abandoned unconscious on the beach after a drug orgy with Gianpiero Piccioni, jazzband pianist son of then Foreign Minister Atilio Piccioni.

Miss Caglio claimed that her former lover, self-styled "Marquis" Ugo Montagna, had convinced Rome Police Chief Saverio Polito to "hush up" the case.

Miss Caglio's allegations, made during the trial of a journalist charged with spreading false information, touched off postwar Italy's biggest sensation. Newspapers devoted nearly their full front pages to the case for months. Wild reports involved some of the top names of Italian society in alleged drug orgies.

Foreign Minister Piccioni resigned his post in September, 1954 to stand by the side of his accused son.

A trial in Venice in 1957 ended in full acquittal for Piccioni, Montagna and Polito. Evidence at the trial failed to show that Piccioni even knew Miss Montesi.

Miss Caglio now faces trial at a date still to be set for slander and false testimony.

The Venice trial took a dramatic turn when two alibis of "uncle Giuseppe," questioned as a witness, were shattered.

He at first claimed that he left his print shop office at 11 p.m. the night Wilma died and spent a short time riding with his fiancée, Mariella Spisso, before returning home at 11:45 p.m.

But he changed his testimony when four print shop employees testified that he left the shop just after 5 p.m. after receiving a telephone call. Wilma left her home at 5 p.m.

Giuseppe then said he was keeping a secret tryst with his fiancée's younger sister, Rossana, that night. Rossana backed up his testimony, but her story in turn was contradicted by her employers who claimed she went with them to the Rome railroad station that night.

The current slander charge against Montesi was brought by the four print shop employees whose testimony he at first denied as a lie.

Prosecutor Mirabile in his indictment one year ago said Montesi's "series of lies" led, "without the possibility of error and with absolute logical rigor, to the conclusion that Montesi that afternoon was involved—in a way which cannot be determined because of his reticency, but with certainty—in the events which led to Wilma Montesi's death."

"They went very quietly, with no show of remorse at all," said Associate Warden Walter D. Achuff.

About 16 persons picketed the prison.

Ross Flanagan, 25, of Berkeley, Calif., a social worker with the American Friends Service Committee, told newsmen: "We are protesting capital punishment in general. We plan to do this every day an execution is scheduled."

Jones and Hamilton became known as the elevator rapists because women were trapped in the elevators of a housing project and then raped.

They were indicted for 40 rapes and robberies. All but 16 of the charges were dropped when they pleaded guilty of murdering Mrs. Ruth Swanson, 66, an apartment house manager.

Mrs. Swanson strangled on a gag while being raped in an elevator in April 1958.

Jones and Hamilton gambled for life sentences by pleading guilty. Attorneys argued the men were mentally retarded, sexual psychopaths, and very young. The gamble failed.

Tests Being Given Now At Northeast

Prospective students planning to enter Northeast Louisiana State College for the first time in February are being invited to take part in a pre-registration testing and guidance program.

Dr. Fred J. Vogel, dean of student services, urged prospective freshmen and transfer students to take advantage of the program. He said that college regulations require entering undergraduates to take the battery of tests offered.

RESULTS

Test results are of value to the students and their advisers for program planning and schedule making, Vogel said.

The tests begin at 9 a.m. Friday, Jan. 15, and will be completed by 3:30 p.m. Prospective enrollees may receive information on the testing and guidance program from the Division of Student Services, 218 Administration Building, on campus.

Individual conferences will be scheduled between the student and staff members at some time between Tuesday, Jan. 19, and Friday, Jan. 22. Test results will be reviewed, programs of study planned and tentative schedules developed.

Registration itself is scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 3 and 4. Classes begin Feb. 5.

Sobbing Girl In Custody After Slaying

WABASHA, Minn. (AP)—A sobbing, hysterical high school girl was in custody here Friday accused of killing her father with a shotgun after a quarrel about her coming home 30 minutes late Thursday night.

Darlene Brueske, 16, was arrested at the home of her gym teacher in nearby Plainview early Friday. The teacher, Miss Lynette Russ, said pretty, 16-year-old Darlene was sobbing. "I didn't mean it. I didn't mean it."

County Atty. Martin Healy said Darlene had returned to her farm home at 10:30 Thursday night after going to school to practice a tumbling act. She had been told to be home at 10.

Healy said the girl and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Layton Brueske, had quarreled about her late arrival. Then, after the 10-minute Bible study they had each night, the parents went to bed.

Mrs. Brueske told officers the girl had come into the parents' bedroom about 11 p.m., armed with a .410 shotgun and wearing a belt with a hunting knife. Both parents sat up, and Mrs. Brueske turned on a light. She said the girl had fired twice, one charge striking Brueske in the face and head. Darlene fled after her mother had wrested the gun from her.

She ran three miles to the home of Miss Russ, clad only in jeans, a cotton blouse, and cotton slippers. Miss Russ called authorities.

Healy quoted the girl as saying she was "just trying to scare" her father and didn't realize she was pulling the trigger.

LIVER AILMENT

Hepatitis Seems To Be Increasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Viralment for the disease, and while hepatitis, a liver ailment that ranks high among public health problems, apparently is on the upswing again.

The Public Health Service reported Friday an increase of almost 50 per cent in cases in 1959 compared with the previous year — 23,187 against 16,294.

"Thus," the report said, "it appears that the incidence of hepatitis is now on an upward swing following a low year in 1957 (when there were 14,922 cases) preceded by a steadily declining number of cases since the peak ... in 1954."

There were 50,000 cases in 1954.

Dr. Carl Dauer of the Health Service told a reporter last year was the second year in a row the disease had shown an increase.

"I rather think it's part of a cycle in which the disease increases and decreases in incidence, as certain other diseases do," he said. "There is no other explanation."

Viral hepatitis actually consists of two types, each caused by a slightly different virus. One form, known as infectious hepatitis, strikes at the liver through contaminated food or water. The other hits through transfusions of whole blood or plasma from someone who even unwittingly harbors the dangerous virus in his bloodstream. This second type, called homologous serum hepatitis, can also be caused by faulty sterilization of hypodermic needles or other instruments.

The disease is usually marked by jaundice, a yellowing of the skin.

Dr. Dauer said doctors don't always distinguish between the two types in reporting cases, but on the basis of death records it is believed the infectious type is much more prevalent than the other.

The infectious type causes an average of 800 deaths a year, compared with about 100 from the serum type.

There is no sure-fire drug treatment.

Early Lull Hits Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—With Congress in an early session lull, senators and representatives busied themselves Friday in strategy huddles, party organization meetings, and doing chores for the home folks.

Both the House and the Senate were in recess until Monday. But there were signs that, once started in earnest, the session will have few pauses in the drive to adjourn ahead of the national political conventions in July. In recent years Congress has been sitting into September.

Voting Machine Problems May Be Meet Topic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Mrs. Wilbur Marvin, president of the Louisiana Organization for State Legislation (LOSL), said Friday the group may meet after Saturday's second primary to discuss voting machine problems unless the state voting machine board does so.

Mrs. Marvin tried unsuccessfully to get a voting machine board meeting called to look into what she called a large number of mechanical failures in the Dec. 5 primary.

She urged the board to meet immediately after Saturday's second primary to "insure adequate safeguards against further abuse of the voting rights of qualified voters."

Of the state's 2,525 voting machines, she said, 198 had blown fuses during the first primary balloting and there were 392 reports in all of difficulties. She said this included mechanical trouble, overloading and commissioners' errors.

Voting machine officials blamed most of the trouble on large ballots in Caddo Parish, where there were numerous candidates for police juror and an exact number of candidates had to be selected. They said that where voters left ballots incomplete their votes had to be erased with special equipment and overloading and blown fuses resulted.

FAR OUT FOLLOWERS Arty Inhabitants Query Folk Singer

NEW YORK (AP)—The artyshow especially for me.

inhabitants of Greenwich Village keep pushing notes under the door of folk singer Theodore Bikel's apartment.

"Have you moved uptown spiritually?" the notes ask. "Musicals yet."

The downtown devotees can't understand whatever possessed Bikel to accept the male lead of Captain Von Trapp in the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit Broadway musical "The Sound of Music."

"Just to show them I haven't deserted them. I now include 'Edelweiss' in all by concert programs," says Bikel by way of apology to his far out followers. "It's a folk song written into the "Rodgers added it to the show while we were trying out in Boston. Oscar sang it to me one night in a hotel room. I liked it immediately. 'Good,' he answered, 'we'll use it tonight.' That gave me about two hours to learn it."

The fact that folk singer Bikel is more than able to hold his own in a Broadway musical that includes opera singer Patricia Neway, musical comedy star Mary Martin and TV singer Marian Marlowe is only one indication of his amazing versatility.

In this era of Method madness, Bikel is that Broadway rarity: a man of many parts, many accents, many talents. He speaks six languages fluently, sings in 14 more. In Hollywood, he won an Academy Award nomination as the Southern sheriff in "The Defiant Ones," played such varied roles as a Scottish grave digger (in "I bury the Living"), a German submarine officer ("The Enemy Below"), a French farmer ("The Vintage"), a Dutch doctor ("The Little Kidnappers"), a Soviet army officer ("Fraulein") and characters ranging in age from 24 to 85.

On Broadway he won raves in "The Rope Dancers," "The Lark" and "Tonight in Samarkand." He has appeared in more than 100 television plays, and until recently conducted his own weekly radio show of intellectual chatter and current events interviews.

As a folk singer, his cross-country concert tours have been constant sellouts and his eight Elektra albums ("Bravo Bikel," "Songs of a Russian Gypsy," "Songs of Israel," "Folk Songs From Just About Everywhere," etc.) have sold more than 100,000 copies in a field where 5,000 is considered a hit.

"Director Vincent Donohue brought a Navy petty officer to rehearsals to teach me how to use it," recalls Bikel, "but he was to late. I already had taught myself. The Navy man said I was doing everything wrong with my fingers but the sound came out right. The same can be said of my guitar playing."

In creating the role of Captain Von Trapp, Bikel cut down on the sauerkraut content of his Austrian accent so as not to clash with the rest of the cast, even though the setting is laid in the Austrian tyrol.

Born in Vienna of Jewish parents who spoke both French and German, Bikel came to the United States in 1935 after finishing a 2½ year run with Peter Ustinov in the London production of "The Love of Four Colonels." Despite

BETWEEN NIXON, ROCKY

Nation Assured Of Indirect Test

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—The nation Friday was assured of an early but indirect test of grass roots strength between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The budding duel—a fight which Rockefeller is helpless to prevent even if he wants to—was perhaps the most politically significant development on the opening day of the filing period for New Hampshire's March 8 presidential primary.

But the biggest surprise was provided by a former federal judge who injected the name of President Eisenhower's brother, Milton Eisenhower, into the country's first presidential primary of 1960.

Albert Levitt said he will run for a seat at the Republican National Convention as a delegate "favorable" to the nomination of Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University.

In another development, two women filed for Democratic delegate seats as candidates favorable to Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a self-described unavowed presidential contender.

And, as scheduled, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) formally plunged into the picture. His supporters entered him in both sections of the early-bird primary, the preference poll as well as the convention delegate contest.

Supporters of Nixon will celebrate his 47th birthday by entering his name in the preference poll Saturday.

By day's end, this New Hampshire primary pattern began to take shape: Nixon and Kennedy are not likely to have any opposition in the so-called beauty contest phase of the balloting. For one thing, all the other potential presidential candidates in both parties have declined to challenge Nixon and Kennedy directly. Furthermore, a candidate is free to withdraw his name from the poll if it is entered without his permission.

But both Nixon and Kennedy will face opposition in the delegate scraps.

Nixon candidates are being challenged by die-hard Rockefeller enthusiasts who have ignored the New York governor's announced decision not to run. Two Rockefeller backers filed Friday and more are expected before the close of the one-month filing period.

Rockefeller, in a statement issued in Albany, N.Y., reiterated that he is not a candidate, but said: "My counsel advises me there is nothing I can do with regard to those who wish to run as delegates 'favorable' to me."

He declared, however, that, "If any petitions are filed in the preferential primary for delegates pledged to my nomination, I shall exercise my right under New Hampshire election law and ask promptly that my name be withdrawn."

Kennedy's delegate slate will have to contend with delegate-candidates favoring Symington and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who announced his presidential candidacy only days before Kennedy.

Levitt's action in filing for Milton Eisenhower touched off speculation that some New Hampshire voters might be attracted by the magic of the Eisenhower name even though the President's brother is not a candidate.

The ex-judge is an old political opponent of Nixon, who trounced Levitt at the polls in a 1950 California GOP primary for the U.S. Senate.

Levitt says he plans to oppose Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) in the state primaries next September on a platform which includes withholding of "economic, political and military aid from every Communist, Fascist and Vaticanist foreign government."

identified my own brother." Miller said he and Touhy had no premonition of the ambush. Touhy, an old friend, wanted a body guard merely "to stop any attempt to pin a parole violation on him," Miller said.

The ex-policeman believed Touhy's story that he was railroaded to prison on fake charges of kidnaping onetime swindler and confidence man John (Jake the Barber) Factor. But Miller did not believe Factor, now a respected Los Angeles real estate man, played a part in the murder. "Factor doesn't have that kind of guts," Miller said.

Police believe Touhy was killed under orders of the crime syndicate which he battled when he was a tough, lone wolf operator in Chicago's northwest suburbs. But they have no clues on just who gave the order or just who pulled the triggers.

Congress Not Stopping Solon From Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota is not going to let the new Congress session interfere too much with his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination.

His campaign headquarters announced today he will visit eight states this month, mostly during weekends when Congress usually is in recess.

A highlight of the trip will be a speech before the Alaska Democratic State Convention at Ketchikan Jan. 16.

Humphrey will speak in Washington State Saturday at a Wenatchee luncheon and in Seattle that night. He then will go to Utah for conference with party leaders at Salt Lake City Sunday and Ogden and Logan Monday.

Probers Ask Aid In Hunt For Debris

BOLIVIA, N. C. (UPI)—Investigators searching for clues in the mysterious crash of an airliner near here issued an appeal Friday for help in collecting parts and pieces which apparently fell from the plane before it plunged into a muddy field.

The appeal came after residents of small towns as far as 20 miles away reported finding airplane pillows, pieces of fuselage skin, insulation and identification papers from victims.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges ordered out a 125-man National Guard detachment to make a shoulder-to-shoulder search for two bodies still missing. The Coast Guard and Marine Corps will assist with boats and helicopters probing waters off Southport, N. C., 18 miles from here, and in the Cape Fear River, 22 miles east of here.

NAL and Civil Aeronautics Board officials felt the two missing bodies would be found when the twisted hulk of fuselage was removed Friday afternoon but this was not the case. Officials believed the bodies could have fallen considerable distances from the main parts of wreckage.

FBI fingerprint experts established the identity of 31 of the 32 bodies recovered by late Friday.

Officials said the search would be concentrated first in a two square mile area in which the other bodies and main parts of wreckage fell, but would be extended as necessary to the sea and the river.

They also speculated that the bodies may have been buried in the soft dirt by the impact of their fall. Most of the bodies which fell free of the plane left impressions 6-8 inches deep in the ground and some were partially covered by dirt.

David L. Thompson, in charge of the Civil Aeronautics Board investigation, said the pieces will be assembled in the area after the on-the-scene study is completed. He explained the pieces would probably be flown by helicopter to a vacant hangar in the area for re-assembly. The investigation was expected to take a week or 10 days.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington officially confirmed Friday that the DC-6B broke up in the air.

Otto Passman denied gambling on the Governor's race... here's proof...

December 28, 1959

Mr. T. C. Standifer
Vice President and Cashier
Ouachita National Bank
Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Standifer:

I, Otto Passman, hand you herewith the sum of $5,000.00, and I, Wayne H. Woods, likewise, hand you the sum of $5,000.00. In the event that Chep Morrison wins the Louisiana gubernatorial election on January 9, 1960, you are authorized to turn over to Wayne H. Woods the sum of $10,000.00. In the event that James H. Davis wins the Louisiana gubernatorial election on January 9, 1960, you are authorized to turn over to Otto E. Passman the sum of $10,000.00.

Disbursement is to be made on the official promulgation of the election returns by the Secretary of the State of Louisiana or sooner if one of the parties to the above agreement consents thereto.

Otto E. Passman

Congressman Otto E. Passman has stated that his principal reason for getting into the Governor's race is a fear that commitments have been made to the N.A.A.C.P. and Hoffa-type elements by the Morrison camp. The Honorable Passman knows that he has no proof of these charges . . . Chep Morrison has stated he would withdraw from the race if such were proven.

What then, is the real reason? The above document is a photostat of an actual betting agreement which is on deposit at a local bank. Without stretching one's imagination even a little bit, the above wager might have more than a little something to do with Mr. Passman's avid and self-righteous interest in the Governor's election.

Lions, Irish In Semifinals Of Ouachita Meet Today

Pre-tournament charts ran true to form in the 12th annual Ouachita Invitational Basketball Tournament yesterday as three co-favorites and a darkhorse climbed into today's semifinal play.

Calhoun (25-3) and St. Matthew's (23-3) tangle at 12:30 p.m. and host Ouachita (9-7) and Grayson (28-3) meet head-on at 1:45 today to determine the finalists in the boys' division.

In the girls' semifinals, undefeated Pioneer goes against Neville at 10 a.m. and West Monroe, also unbeaten, battles Ouachita at 11:15. Consolation games are slated for 5:15 and 6:30, with the girls' finals scheduled for 7:45 and the boys' title game slated for 9.

Ouachita, in the midst of a so-so campaign, cut short a third period rally by Fort Necessity, then pulled away in the fourth period to take their second win of the day, 50-37. Trailing 26-19 at the half, Coach Alton Johnson's Fort quint raced back to tie the score twice in the third period before accurate shooting by Harry Crowe and Don Long pulled the Lions out of danger. Crowe was high for H. H. Holliman's Lions with 13 points while teammates Don Long and Bobby Hendrix contributed 12 apiece. Tall James Taylor tossed in 16 for Fort. Trailing by five points with 45 seconds remaining in the game, Grayson pulled one out of the five and stopped a fine Marion club, 42-41. Jordan scored the final six points that brought the win, sinking the winning basket two seconds before the buzzer.

Billy May, a lightweight with a featherweight jump shot, led the winners with 15 points. Bill Brasher and Dennis Towns were high for Glen Post's Marion squad, which dropped only its 6th game in 26 meetings.

Spike Smith scored 13 points in the last half to spark Calhoun to a 66-50 triumph over Eros and vault the Chiefs into today's play. Smith wound up with 19 points, the same as Eros' Curtis Bunn.

Girls' quarterfinals saw West Monroe blast Baskin, 43-23, and Neville rout Chatham, 40-22. Nancy Smith with 18 and Joyce Saxon with 14 were high for the Rebel girls while Frances Futch hooped 11 for Baskin. Cecile Menut's 22-point effort boosted Neville past Chatham. Simons had 12 for the losers.

St. Matthew's overcame an early deficit to win 42-41. The Lions were never in the running as the district 1-A-A Lions streaked to a 24-10 lead at the half and were in front, 37-13, after three quarters. Ten players contributed to the Ouachita scoring.

High-scoring Mary Katherine Ross was blanketed by an effective Calhoun defense but Pioneer managed to pull out a 41-37 decision to take a spot in the girls' semifinals. Miss Ross, averaging well over 30 points per game this year was held to 20. Bobbie Hale of Calhoun scored 27.

Undefeated Pioneer trailed 8-7 after one quarter, 17-16 at the half and 26-24 after three periods before rallying in the final seven minutes to record the victory.

Ouachita remained in the running for the title by trouncing hapless LaSalle of Olla, 39-15. Janice Holloway chalked up 20 points for the winning Lions and Randall's 7 counters led the losers. LaSalle failed to score over five points in any quarter.

Forest Easily Wins In Oak Grove Meet

OAK GROVE, La. (Special)—Playing only in the first half, Larry Butler scored 26 points to pace favored Forest boys to an easy 83-42 conquest of Oak Ridge to highlight action in the Oak Grove Tournament yesterday.

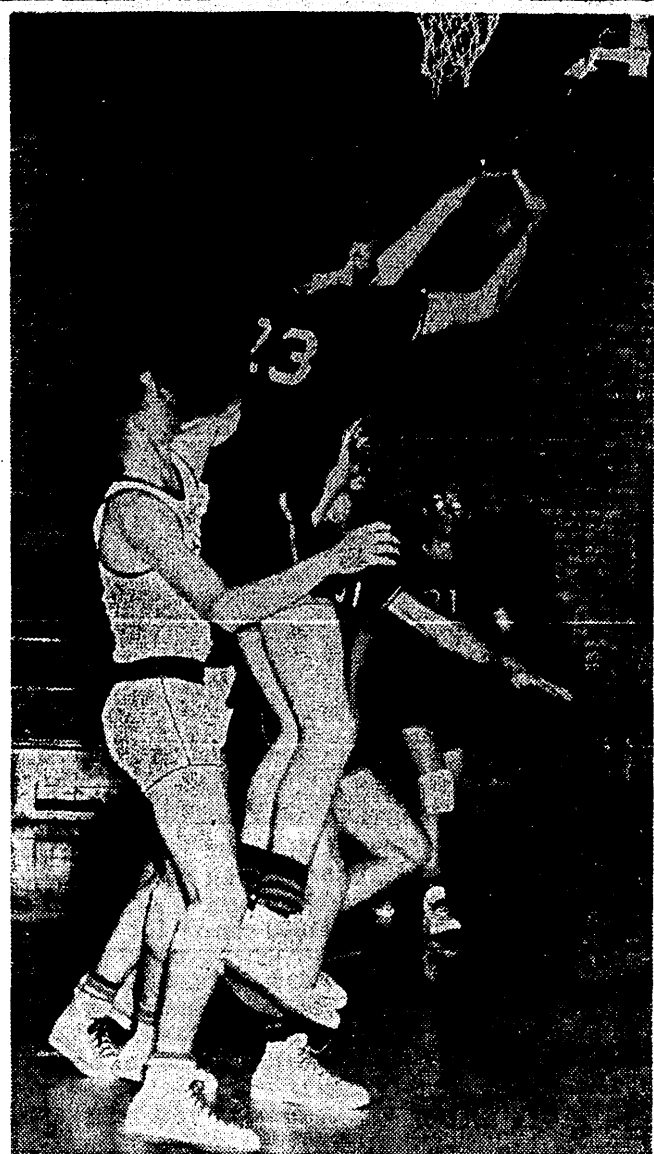

Forest jumped off to a 29-8 lead in the first period and had a 50-13 advantage at halftime in the victory. Harold Kelly got 16 points for the winners and Henry DeVoter 15. Jackie Molan and Jerry Green each got 12 for Oak Ridge.

Oak Grove and Kilbourne also took victories to join Forest and Epps in the tournament semi-finals Saturday. In the girls' division, Lake Providence took a 56-15 verdict over Monticello and Oak Grove downed Epps, 39-10.

Oak Grove boys routed Delhi, 46-18, with Ronnie Myrick, back in action after a month's absence, scored 18 points. Hopper and Valentine led Delhi with 4 points each. Kilbourne whipped Lake Providence, 54-45, as Harris and Hendrix put in 12 points each. Hulon Fairchild got 20 to lead the losers.

Johnson got 23 points, Lewis 14 and Snyder 12 in Lake Providence's victory over Monticello. Jerry led Monticello with 11. Howell got 19 points for Oak Grove girls and Tichey 13. Hawkins got 6 for Epps.

Today, Lake Providence and Forest girls meet at 10 a.m., Kilbourne and Oak Grove girls at 11:30, Forest and Oak Grove boys at 2:30. Girls' finals will start at 7 and the boys' finals at 8.

Irish Roll Over Rayville, 87-55

St. Matthew's one-two punch of John Varino and speedy Buddy Embanato accounted for 57 points in pacing the Fighting Irish to their 15th straight victory, a 87-55 rout of district 2-A rival Rayville here last night.

Varino, St. Matthew's 6-3 center, scored 33 points and pulled in 17 rebounds while backcourt ace Embanato netted 24 points as Jim Mahoney's Irish picked up their 23rd victory of the campaign against only three losses. The Irish haven't lost since Dec. 10. St. Matthew's recorded a 54 percentage from the field in taking its second victory of the day. The Irish downed Neville, 50-37, yesterday morning in the Ouachita Tournament.

Rayville held the winners within reach in the first quarter, trailing by only a point, 15-14, at the end of the period but a 26-point surge in the second stanza gave the Irish a 41-28 lead at halftime and the visitors never threatened again. The count at the end of the third period was 65-41 with St. Matthew's on top.

Victor Zagone was the only St. Matthew's player besides Varino and Embanato to score in double figures with 10. Sam Marsala got 5 points and 9 rebounds.

Peters was tops for Rayville with 17 points while McCormick had 14.

St. Matthew's won the night's "B" game, 36-35. Gerald Williams scored 16 points for the winners and Donnie Elias 12. O'Neal led Rayville with 9 points and Clifford had 8.

William Carey took the lead at the start of the second half and at one time moved ahead by eight points, the widest margin of the game.

Louisiana College hit 35 of 57 field goal shots for 36.3 per cent while William Carey dropped in 37 of 37 for 42.5. The difference came from the charity line as Louisiana College sank 26 of 34, Carey only 20 of 26.

Glenn Graff of Louisiana College was the top scorer with 32 points. J. L. Covington led Carey with 28.

It was a battle from the eighth pole with the five-year-old gelding Pundit gaining the nod in a picture finish. Time was 1:12 4-5 for the six furlong dash. The daily double paid $22.20 with Black Dot ($8.40) and Skean Dhu ($4.80) winning the first two races.

MIDDLE OR WELTER

Basilio Points For Shot At Title

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio said Friday he wants a return crack at Gene Fullmer for the National Boxing Assn. and expects to get the chance.

The plucky ex-Marine from nearby Chittenango also is considered paring to 147 pounds and taking on Don Jordan for the world welterweight crown. He is in daily training. "Certainly I'm looking for the Fullmer bout, that's my business isn't it," Basilio commented when asked what he thought of reports such a match was in the works. Although Fullmer's Manager, Mary Jensen, has made no definite commitments, Basilio said he expected both parties to get together soon.

Basilio, who now varies between 156 and 158 pounds, would have to shed 10 pounds in order to meet the slick Jordan. The match, being pushed by Syracuse promoter Norman Rothschild, would be held in the War Memorial Auditorium here.

However, any action in this line hangs fire on the outcome of a hearing by the New York State Athletic Commission into charges against Rothschild of irregular practice.

Rothschild is accused of paying Gabe Genovese, a person not licensed by the commission, $10,000 to arrange a middleweight match between Basilio and Johnny Saxton on Sept. 12, 1956. The hearing is set for Jan. 21.

If Basilio did meet Jordan, Fullmer's probable opponent would be Joey Gadiello of Philadelphia. Rothschild also would assist in promoting this bout. Jensen had hoped to hold Fullmer's next fight, in April, at the Brigham Young University fieldhouse in Provo, Utah. However, the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints refused to allow the Mormon school to be used for a professional fight.

The most likely sites for the fight now are Denver, San Francisco, Milwaukee or Miami.

Fullmer won the NBA 160-pound title by stopping Basilio in the 14th round last August at San Francisco.

Keating, Frick To Talk About Continental Loop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) will meet with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick on Monday to talk over problems posed by the embryonic Continental League.

Keating's office said Friday the meeting was requested by Frick. Frick's attorney, Paul A. Porter, is also scheduled to attend the session.

Keating last week said he'd be happy to act as mediator in disputes between the Continental League and the existing major leagues of which Frick is commissioner.

He made the statement after a meeting with Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League, and William Shea, the league's founder.

Frick said at that time he could think of no better man than Keating to mediate disputes but added there wasn't any area for mediation and he foresaw none.

SAYS SARAZEN

Double Eagle Not Top Achievement

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Sarazen, who joined other fairway immortals in oils Friday on the walls of Golf House, does not consider the celebrated double eagle in the 1935 Masters his greatest or most satisfying golf achievement.

"It was the spectacular shot, the one everybody talks about but I take my greatest pride in having won the U.S. and British Opens in the same year, 1932," the doughty squire said Friday.

"Nowadays wherever I go people say, 'That's the man who got the double eagle.' Actually, it was just a piece of luck. They forget the championships I won."

It was because of these championships that Sarazen was honored with a "hanging" at the mid-town home of American golf. An oil portrait—showing him seated at a table in his familiar knickerbockers—was placed beside paintings of Bob Jones, Walter Hagen, Francis Ouimet, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and John Reid, the last the so-called father of the game in this country.

The double eagle—an incredible deuce on the par five, 15th at Augusta enabled Sarazen to tie Craig Wood for the Masters title and later win in a playoff.

It was just one jewel in a crown which included two U.S. Open championships, three PGA's and the British Open.

"Winning the American and the British Opens in 1932 gave me a great thrill," Gene said. "Until then, only Bob Jones had done it. Of course, Ben Hogan came along to make it three in 1953."

"I'll never forget the U.S. Open at Fresh Meadow. I was eight shots back with 20 holes to play. I played those last 20 in 100 strokes to win with 236. In the British Open at Sandwich I waltzed in, you might say. I was nine shots ahead with 12 holes to go and won by five."

On the last day he had two eagles on the same hole—the eighth—and finished 13 under par. Sarazen is 57. His slicked-down black hair hasn't a thread of grey. He walks with a sprightly step and still is one of the hardest and fastest players in the game.

He leaves soon for the PGA Seniors at Dunedin, Fla., starting later this month. He'll play in the Masters and the golden anniversary British Open at St. Andrews in early July.

"I want to see St. Andrews again," he said. "I want to relive a nightmare—see Hell Bunker at the 14th where I took an eight while defending my championship in 1933."

COMMISSIONER CHARGES

New Group Trying To Control Boxing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—"A new gang of hoodlums is getting ready to take the place of the old Frankie Carbo syndicate," California Athletic Commissioner Harry Falk charged Friday.

"In fact, he added, 'our own investigation shows it has already begun to take over."

"I can't name names right now but they are known to us and they are in the hands of the Kefauver Investigation Committee."

Falk, an attorney, said the names would come out at the Kefauver investigation.

California Thursday withdrew from the National Boxing Assn., charging failure to clean hoodlums out of boxing.

"There is a stronger need for an effective national organization than ever," Falk declared. "The NBA wasn't the answer. It lacks leadership, fortitude and purpose."

Falk was a vice president of the NBA until California's withdrawal. Under the rotation system for officers, he would have become president in three years.

Commissioner Doug Hayden of San Francisco commented, "He would never get to first base trying to clean the game up. He'd be overruled by the clique."

A meeting of the California commission has been set for Feb. 5 in Los Angeles to review the boxing situation and develop a plan of action.

Falk said Gen. Melvin Krulwich, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, and other boxing figures have been invited. This indicates an attempt for closer cooperation between California and New York—the two biggest boxing states and both outside the NBA along with Massachusetts.

"Most states have no organization to investigate boxing," Falk declared. "People are allowed to operate as they please. There is no fingerprint check to determine the past records of boxers or their managers."

California does have such an investigative body.

"If the states can't do it," continued Falk, "something else has to be worked out. Nobody has seemed interested in doing it."

Sen. Kefauver Warns Against Harming AFL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) Friday promised a Senate investigation if any evidence of "pushing around" develops in the American Football League's effort to get off the ground.

Kefauver said after meeting with AFL Commissioner Joe Foss that he would give the new pro league all the encouragement he could.

Foss reported to Kefauver on what he has described as harassment by the established National Football League.

"They certainly haven't been wasting any sweetness on us," Foss said of NFL proponents of expanding their own circuit.

Foss said NFL hostility had forced the AFL to yield its franchise in Minneapolis-St. Paul and the NFL is now concentrating opposition on Dallas, where the AFL also has a franchise.

After conferring with Kefauver and Paul Rand Dixon, chief counsel of Kefauver's Antitrust and Subcommittees, Foss said he would wait until the NFL meets in Miami later this month to decide whether to suggest new legislation to protect the AFL.

The NFL is scheduled to vote on expansion at its forthcoming session.

Kefauver said that "if there is evidence of unfair practices and of any pushing around, I will ask the subcommittee to have further hearings on legislation pending before it."

Browns Give Up Claim To White

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns of the National Football League Friday notified Houston of the newly formed American Football League that they are relinquishing any claim to Bob White, the Ohio State fullback. Both clubs hold signed contracts, but Houston's was the first.

Paul Brown, general manager and coach of the Browns, telegraphed the Houston Oilers that when White was signed to a Cleveland contract the Browns were not aware that he already had completed a contract with Houston. He said Cleveland now considers him to be Houston property.

White was the 10th draft choice of Cleveland.

Rain Possible For Showdown At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Possibility of rain loomed for the ballyhooed showdown between Hillsdale and Tony Lee in the $50,000-added San Carlos Handicap at Santa Anita Saturday.

The Hoosier-bred Hillsdale and Kentucky Derby winner Tony Lee dominate a field of seven swiftness pointing toward the richer $100,000-added Santa Anita and San Juan Handicaps.

Rain or shine, Hillsdale and Tony will have to ramble to keep ahead of the likes of Eddie Schmidt, Fleet Nasrullah, Clendinning, Ole Pals, and Finnegan. At seven furlongs, the San Carlos could be anyone's race.

If the rains come — and the weatherman said Friday they will — the edge probably belongs to Texan Fred Turner's Tony Lee.

NCAA Delivers Setback To Unlimited Substitution

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. Friday delivered a surprise attack on unlimited substitution by formally recommending that no substantial change be made at this time in the football rules governing substitution.

MOBILE BOWL

Senior Passing Marks May Fall

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Despite the presence of numerous top ball carriers, the possibility arose Friday that an all-time passing record may fall in Saturday's televised Senior Bowl football game.

Both Coach Weeb Ewbank of the favored South and Coach Jim Lee Howell of the North game some indication along that line as they closed out preparation for the game. Both had their quarterbacks throwing often in the closing drill.

It was strictly a repeat of virtually every workout this week. Charley Britt of Georgia's Southeastern Conference champions again did the throwing for the Southerners and Jack Lee of Cincinnati for the Yankees.

It will take some doing, however, to better the passing record, set in the inaugural Senior Bowl in 1950.

Travis Tidwell of Auburn and Billy Wade, now of the Los Angeles Rams, locked horns in a duel with little Eddie LeBaron, now the Washington Redskins veteran passer, as the South won 22-13.

A total of 56 passes were thrown by the South. The Southerners completed 24 and the North 14. Tidwell won the outstanding player award by completing 13 of 19 passes for 227 yards and two touchdowns.

Ewbank, who directed his Baltimore Colts to a second world championship victory over Howell's New York Giants, declined to predict the winner. But he was quick to disagree with the odds-makers who established the South as a 3½-point favorite.

Ewbank said it should be the other way around because of the North's team speed. Howell, on the other hand, said he figured the South had more weight, especially among the interior linemen.

The players turn pro in the game. Members of the winning squad receive $600 each, and the losers $300. The game will be played under pro rules.

Fair and mild weather is forecast, and a near-sellout crowd is expected for the 40,605 capacity Ladd Stadium. Kickoff is at 3 p.m. EST. The game will be televised over NBC.

Coaching Job To Hildebrand

WINSTON SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Billy Hildebrand, a onetime polio victim who captained the Mississippi State eleven in 1945, was given a three-year contract Thursday as head football coach of Wake Forest College.

The approval came during a meeting of the Baptist school's board of trustees which accepted the resignation of coach Paul Amen "with regret." Amen, 42, resigned earlier in the week to take a job in the personnel department of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. here.

The Wake Forest College athletic council recommended Amen's resignation that Hildebrand be given the post. He was Amen's top Assistant.

Hildebrand came to Wake Forest in 1956, the same year Amen took over as head coach after 12 years on the coaching staff at the U.S. Military Academy. He was an all-Southeastern Conference selection at the end of his senior year at Mississippi State.

Following his graduation in 1946 Hildebrand joined the Mississippi State staff as an assistant coach. He moved to Purdue in 1949 as end coach and to Tennessee in 1950, but he was sidelined with polio and remained out of coaching that year. He was head coach at Whitworth College in 1951 before returning to Mississippi State as freshman coach in 1952. In 1954, he went to Minnesota as line coach, resigning in February of 1956.

Expect Tech Aide To Take Florida Post

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—All signs indicated Friday night that Georgia Tech's Ray Graves will sign as Florida football coach Saturday.

There was no direct word from the No. 1 assistant to Tech Coach Bobby Dodd or any Florida officials but there was a host of indirect reports, all pointing in the same direction.

A source close to Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, president of the university and the person from whom the official announcement is to come, told news director Ed Grant of Radio station WPDQ in Jacksonville that Reitz said Graves would drive to Gainesville for final discussions and perhaps sign as head football coach and athletic director.

A Jacksonville source who would not be quoted but who is close to the situation said the signing would certainly take place this weekend.

Graves is a graduate of Tennessee and has been at Tech since 1947 when he succeeded Bob Woodruff whom he would replace at Florida.

Woodruff came to Florida 10 years ago after three years at Baylor. He resigned Dec. 2 because, he said, Dr. Reitz asked him to for the good of the school.

Graves would say only that he did not plan to leave his Atlanta office Friday until "I hear something."

Dr. Reitz declined to comment, saying there would be none "until a final decision is made and a new coach signed."

Personality Clash Led To Probation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The home by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. said Friday that loss of friendship between Coach Bud Wilkinson and a former assistant led to the indefinite probation of the University of Oklahoma.

WOMAN'S WORLD

OPEN FLOOR PLANS mean new kinds of furniture arrangements and also a new approach to furniture. Seating pieces in particular must be designed to look well from every point of view.

Here the sofa angles out in interesting fashion on both sides. Sofa table behind it exactly reaches top of seating piece. Seating pillows underneath are on castors for easy movement.

Open Floor Plan Demands New Types Of Furniture

By RETTY PEPIS

Surprisingly enough the most avant guard designers today are given to hindsight. This does not mean they are taking a long look backward into the past, but, rather, they are taking a good look forward by considering the appearance of all four sides of any piece of furniture.

For with the arrival of the open floor plan, where rooms flow into rooms, and the dining and living areas are almost inevitably one, the arrangement of furniture poses all angles of it to view. The multipurpose room has also encouraged unconventional seating arrangements, for a conversational area may occupy one corner of a room and a recreation area may be a completely separate entity in another corner of the same room. This second spot may be devoted to TV and Hi-Fi.

Whatever the causes, furniture which can proudly show all four faces to the world at large is a necessity. An interesting phase of this development and one developed to an unusual degree of designer David Wider is the use of the angled sofa. A sofa usually in two sections has a more interesting back look, this designer believes, if its straight, long back line is somewhere broken by an angle.

This is a more graceful and up-to-date version of the circular sectional so popular in the thirties. The squared-off line, somehow, seems to blend better into our squared-off rooms, and tables of rectangular and square shapes are easier to use with such sofas than with round ones.

The see-through chair and the see-over chair are two other types Mr. Wider uses to complete pleasant seating arrangements in these open-floor-plan rooms. The see-through chairs may have caned or spindle backs which permit the viewer to see through them into related areas. The see-over chairs are simply lower than living-room chairs of the past.

Still another decorating device encouraged by the new seating arrangements is the use of furniture designed to fit along the back of a large sofa. This may be a console table (a descendant of the library table of old) or it may even be a storage piece, good camouflage for an old-fashioned sofa originally designed to keep its back to the wall but now brought out into the open.

A linen cut work cloth covered the refreshment table, which was centered with an arrangement of poinsettias surrounding a miniature Santa Claus.

Mrs. C. C. Pope Sr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald presided at the coffee service. Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Jane Barmore and Miss Carol Culpepper, who served as tea girls.

NOT SO FUNNY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — People have a right not to be molested by practical jokers.

So ruled Municipal Judge James M. McDonnell in fining Howard H. Marg $26.50 for squirting a blue liquid on Beth L. Miller.

"It was just a practical joke," argued Marg, explaining the liquid is harmless and evaporates without leaving a stain.

But Judge McDonnell dismissed the argument, holding, "Practical jokes can be obnoxious to the recipient."

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mothers Puzzled—How To Handle Teasers?

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Two letters in the same mail have somewhat similar problems so I'll answer them together.

One says, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: Please print something about boys eight and nine who tease each other and end up fighting."

The other says, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: My 7-year-old teases the younger children (he is the oldest of four) and I just don't know how to handle him any more. He is very sassy and talks back. When I ask him to do something he says, 'What will you do if I don't?' or, 'I'll do it if you'll give me this or that.'"

"He never uses a comb but he has several and can't see one without wanting to beg, bribe or trade for it. He has piles of junk. Is he indifferent to his family or is this just a phase?"

WHAT TO DO

Fighting comes as naturally to small boys as breathing. If the 8- or 9-year-old children are well suited in size and strength let them tease and fight it out. When they get too noisy or begin to hurt each other, separate them. Evidently they need this kind of exercise to get rid of some of their animosities toward each other and toward everything.

As for the 7-year-old, I doubt if he is conscious of any emotion so passive as indifference. He is just all for himself, at the moment, and when the others get in his way he shoves them aside.

If you think he is hurting the younger children, then tell him, "You aren't enjoying them and they aren't enjoying you, maybe."

The annual per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in the U.S. during the 1906-10 period was 22 gallons. It's slightly more than 17 gallons today.

Long before the Christian era, the Chinese used natural gas for heat by piping it from seepages of natural oil through long bamboo pipes.

Lasagne And Eels Favored Food In Italy

ROME (AP) — Eels for dinner? Don't be shocked. Italians eat them and love them. On New Year's day Italians stow away as many lentils as they can. They believe the more lentils they eat the more money they'll make the coming year.

Green lasagne with a red tomato sauce is a delicious pasta dish most Italians like to eat on Christmas day.

Here are two Italian holiday recipes:

Lentil Soup: Wash 1 lb. lentils. Place in pot with 3 quarts of cold water. Cook over medium flame 1 1/2 hours or until lentils are soft. Add salt and pepper. Melt 2 tbs. butter in separate saucepan. Add 2 tbs. olive oil. Saute 1 chopped onion for about 5 minutes or until soft and slightly brown.

When lentils are done strain lentils and liquid through sieve or colander. Add onion and oil mixture. Stir. This produces a thick soup. Keep warm over low flame. Serve hot with parmesan cheese sprinkled over top.

Green Lasagne: Make a mound of 3 cups of flour on a large pastry board. Scoop out a well in mound. Place 1/2 lb. cooked, drained and strained spinach, 2 eggs and 1/4 teaspoon salt in well and work into the flour. Knead for 20 minutes, adding a little more flour if necessary. Divide kneaded dough into two parts and roll each part paper thin. Stretch dough on clean towels to dry for 1 hour. Fold each sheet. Cut across dough with sharp knife. Make ribbons 3/4 inch wide. Shake ribbons loose. Cook in boiling salted water 1/2 hour or less to taste. Drain. About 3 cups of tomato or meat sauce. 6 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese and 1/2 cup butter is needed.

In large casserole place a layer of lasagne, cover with sauce and continue layers. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven 3/4 hour. Sprinkle with additional parmesan before serving. Serves four.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Gal Closes Up Free Snack-Bar For Dates

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: My wife died in '49. I've been mother and father to my 21-year-old. She graduates from college in June.

Last weekend she announced she's marrying a boy who has another year of school. I asked if he could support a wife. She said "I'll support myself on my allowance."

These past several months her checking account has been down to the last dollar no matter how much I deposit. I asked about it and was told the boy doesn't have anything so she's been paying for their evenings out. I hit the ceiling. When I was courting if I didn't have money I stayed home.

Should I continue her allowance after graduation so she can help out? You're a mother, so please help me. — BIRMINGHAM DAD

Dear Dad: Your daughter is of legal age. You've given her a good education and equipped her to take care of herself.

It's up to her to decide what she wants to do with her life. In my opinion no college graduate should be subsidized for marriage or anything else, unless it's post-graduate work to go into a profession.

If your daughter wants to marry and go to work and help her guy through his last year, that's up to her — NOT YOU. Let her know she's on her own and give her your blessings. Period.

Dear Ann: Our two sons 3 and 2 get out of their beds at night and take everything out of the refrigerator, climb on the sink and get at the butcher knives and unlock the kitchen door and go down to the basement.

I thought we solved the problem by tying them in bed with muslin sheets. It took me five minutes to tie them up and three minutes for them to untie themselves.

My husband designed a harness contraption with a lock. When my mother saw it she exploded. She called it a cruel device and made us promise not to use it. The kids are roaming again every night. I'm up till all hours. What can we do? — R. D.

Dear R. D.: I, too, veto the harness. It could strangle a child. Remove the bedroom door and put up an iron gate which can be opened only from the outside. In the meantime try to teach these second story operators what NO means.

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and have learned a lesson I'd like to pass on to other teenage girls who wonder why they aren't being asked out.

Most of the girls in our crowd started to date at 15. A gang of fellows used to come over every Friday and Saturday night to shoot the breeze, raid the refrigerator and listen to records. When a party or school dance came along no one ever asked me.

Finally I confided in the most popular gal in our class. I asked her why she always had dates to turn down and I was never asked anywhere. She said "The fellows never think of you as a date. You're just a swell kid with a lovely home and a full refrigerator."

From then on I closed the free snack-bar and told the fellows I wasn't having any more open-house weekends. I said I was going to pay more attention to my studies. One guy moaned "Gee, Dottie, we'll miss you." I said "When you get so lonesome you can't stand it, call me and we'll go out." He got the hint and so did the others.

Now I date regularly and it's a lot more fun than providing a free hangout. — SMARTENED UP

Dear Smartened: There's a difference between providing a "free hang-out" and inviting kids over. I hope you know the difference.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Olympics Will Spark Ski Styles

Skiwear makes news this winter as ski fans from all over the world prepare to attend the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Both Swiss and American designers have come up with gay, colorful new snow fashions, both for active skiers and style-conscious spectators.

Fred Picard, Swiss designer who now lives in Sun Valley, Idaho, likes textured fabrics this year — particularly a group of parkas made from Swiss drapery fabrics. Each year Picard and his family go back to Switzerland, for fresh inspiration from the land where skiing was born.

One of his most dramatic parkas of the season is made of bold squares on blue and yellow woven into a white background. It reverses, as do most of his ski jackets, to a plain blue cotton poplin side.

Many of the new parkas are trimmed with saddle stitching or embroidery in delicate tones — the latter on pastel jackets.

All parkas are slightly longer this year, some reaching to the knees. Although the new long parkas look slim, they are cut with plenty of fullness to give freedom of action. They also are warmer on the ski lift.

A striking seven-eighths length parka is made of orange and beige cotton poplin reversing to plain cocoa color on the other side. Another of blue poplin is lined with white printed in Olympic symbols. Both have hooded banded in fox.

Slim - legged stretch pants designed by Picard and made in France come in 24 colors. All are made with a special pleat at the ankle that opens to allow the closefitting pants to slip over the foot. Picard points out that his ski pants are cut to hang in a straight line in back, avoiding the skin - tight "long underwear" look to which he objects.

The donkey became the symbol of the Democratic Party in 1870.

ANN LANDERS receives an award as Best Coiffured woman of the press as her hairdresser, Curt Lechner, beams with pride.

DEAR ABBY

Stop Sulking, Nagging And Let Eye Sparkle

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 19 and am going steady with a married man. He and his wife have not been living together for two years.

They have three kids who live with him. The oldest is a daughter of 14. He hired a woman to stay at his house to take care of the kids. He treats this woman like a wife. She drives his car and uses his charge account, but he keeps telling me that she is his hired woman. She's been there for two years.

I think he is lying to me about this woman. A 14-year-old girl can take care of herself and the two younger ones, so why doesn't he fire this woman? How can I find out what she really is to him?

DEAR JEALOUS: In a motherless home, where there are three children, the oldest of whom is 14, it is necessary to have a woman look after them. This woman's role is far more above suspicion than yours. If she doesn't wonder what YOU are to him, don't wonder what SHE is to him.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, I paid for our wedding bands as he was very much in debt at the time. All I could afford was a set of matched gold bands. One for him and one for me.

I have been wanting a small diamond solitaire engagement ring for some time. Now that we can afford it my husband says it isn't proper to give me a solitaire at this late date. I treasure my wedding band and do not want another one. Just a solitaire. Please help me get what I want.

DEAR WANTS A DIAMOND: Your engagement has passed, but you have many anniversaries and birthdays coming up. Quit sulking and nagging and put a sparkle in your eye. And maybe you'll get one for your finger.

DEAR ABBY: I have two sons, 12 and 14, and they still wet the bed at night. I just can't stand it any more. I have tried everything. I've gone from doctor to doctor, and nobody can help me. My 14-year-old has been in the hospital for observation twice because the doctor said he couldn't

Ann Landers' Hairdo Among Ten Best

Ann Landers has been acclaimed the best-coiffured woman of the press in the nation. She and nine other women often in the public eye were honored for the charm, suitability and consistent good grooming of their coiffures by a jury representing 30,000 professional hairdressers.

What happens when the dynamic Ann Landers is trapped under a hair dryer? Curt Lechner, her hairdresser, who also received an award, says that her completely natural beauty looks good even in curlers.

Other winners and their categories are:

Janet Blair, singer of the stage, movies and TV, for music.

Iika Chase, author, actress, lecturer, for writing.

Karol Fageros, tennis star, for sports.

Bernice Fitz-Gibbon, advertising executive, for business.

Zsa Zsa Gabor, Hungarian-born actress for the screen.

Sophie Gimbel, known for her fashion designs as Sophie of Saks Fifth Avenue, for fashion.

Hermione Gingold, English-born comedian, for TV.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) for society.

Gwen Verdon, musical comedy star, for stage.

What makes these 10 women so admired by hairdressers? Many other women wear more elaborate coiffures which more obviously display the hairdressers' imagination and art.

These women were selected because they chose suitable hairdresses according to the needs of their lives and because they always look well-groomed although they are too busy to spend many hours on the project.

Ann Landers was cited, as many of the others were, because she chooses a style which may be combed casually and neatly for her busy office life helping readers solve their personal problems. Then when she changes into her role of lecturer before teenagers all over the country, the coiffure may be combed in more formal feminine fashion.

Ann Landers and Lechner received their awards from hairdresser Eddie Nordquist, Chicago professional winner in 1959, on behalf of the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD

Esther Williams and Jeff Chandler — an old, old romance by Hollywood standards — have rekindled the flame and may even get married. A top-ranking New York doctor has a theory about Margaret Sullivan's mysterious death, as well as the deaths of many others who have been stricken after taking sedatives. The physician is preparing a paper on the subject, claiming that when high-strung patients are given drugs that just daze them, instead of putting them to sleep completely, their natural instinct is to continue doing what they were doing before their senses were dulled — which in Miss Sullivan's case and many others, might have been to continue taking the pills. John Ireland's favorite new date is Lola Steele, sister of Mrs. Huntington Hartford. A famous if not Grade A comedian is persons non grata at Lindy's, reportedly for walking out on a 95-cent tab. Scarsdale millionaire Phil Macy is negotiating to buy Franklin D. Roosevelt's historic yacht, "The Potomac." It was price-tagged at $160,000 when it was on the block.

Mickey Spillane, quiet for a couple of seasons, has finished two books, both due for publication in the Spring. Airline stewardesses making runs from the United States to Havana now stay close to the airport once they land in Cuba. Too many of Castro's bearded soldiers consider themselves irresistible lovers, and when the American girls tell them to get lost they make things tough. One of Fidel's armed aides threatened a stewardess with arrest on a trumped-up charge if she refused a date with him. Yul Brynner continues stubbornly to ignore interviewer's questions about his marital status. He just waits until they go on to the next subject — won't say a word about his widely rumored problems with Mrs. Brynner. Constance Carpenter, who was fortunate, in the opinion of the critics, to break her ankle and thus avoid appearing in the flop play, "Guilty," has had the cast removed, is considering another role, and a best-seller in many cities. The weirdest classified advertisement of the season ran in the Wall Street Journal the other day. It sought an alcoholic for a job in North Carolina, and requested applicants to submit their "drinking habits in detail." Joanne Bennett, the young British beauty, will come to the U. S. within the next few months to marry film actor Aldo Ray. Her family object to the match because they think he's too old for her, but she's determined to become his bride.

Actor Frank Overton made an understandably brief trip to Hollywood to test for the role he created on Broadway in "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs." He flew out for just one day. He wants the part in the film version, but he also wanted to spend as little time as possible away from his bride, Phyllis Hill. Tip to male Thespians: chaps auditioning for Garson Kanin for roles in "The Good Soup" have to play passionate love scenes with Diane Cilento. Otherwise Gar just can't tell whether or not they're right. (And have you seen Diane?)

HIS CHANCE AT LAST

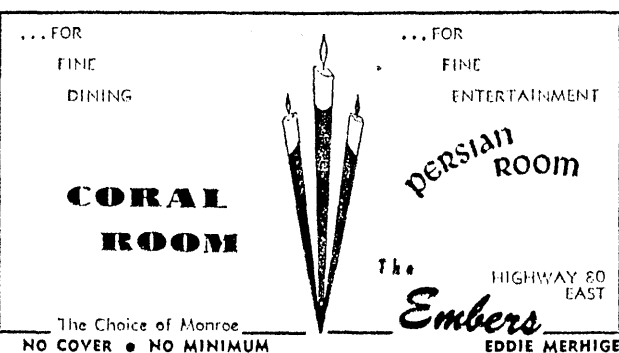

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Goodspeed, who has been writing a column called "Mr. Peep's Diary" for nine years for the Baltimore Evening Sun, finally got his first chance to use it.

He was peering into a restaurant that was changing management when a woman stopped and asked him:

"Why are you peeping in there?"

"Because I'm Mr. Peep," he replied with massive logic.

The woman chuckled quite a bit, but not as much as Goodspeed.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

By HARRY JUSTER

Today You Have Wide Variety Of Choices in Men's Styles, Colors

Dear Mr. Juster: Why do you insist on all males from six to 60 wearing suits alike in style and color instead of having a choice of assorted styles to suit everybody's tastes. Why should everyone have to conform and look uniform?

A non-conformist Are you sure you've been reading my column? Conforming is one thing I don't advocate. If there ever was a time men can choose from a variety of styles and colors it's now. What pleases your fancy? Ivy, continental, continental ivy, natural shoulder, or lounge model suits. Take your choice. Tired of classic gray, blue or brown? Pick from new olive blends, compound tones and heather mixtures. We're in an era of men's fashions that stresses individuality, not conformity.

Dear Mrs. Juster: Are there shoes that have hidden heels or something? My husband is 5 feet 5 inches tall. When I wear dress shoes with low heels I am still taller. This bothers me a great deal. I know he can't help being short, but thought you might suggest some way to make him appear taller.

Mrs. R.H.M. I can understand your wanting to give your husband a lift. A popular way to add inches is by wearing a shoe designed specifically for that purpose. They're built up from the inside, making it practically impossible to detect any outward differences from a regular shoe. Check with his favorite shoe shop about this style. Have him try a pair and you'll start looking up to him.

Dear Mr. Juster: I went to a P-TA meeting and couldn't help but notice the way some of the teachers looked. Some with suits badly in need of pressing, others in poorly matched sportcoats and slacks. We talk about impressing our teen-agers with the idea of dressing better. How can we expect them to with this as an example?

Puzzled Parent You've touched on one of my pet subjects. Telling youngsters to watch their appearance means nothing if we take a "do as I say, not as I do" attitude. As parents and teachers it's up to us to stress the importance of looking well, not by words, but by demonstration. This doesn't necessitate expensive, elaborate wardrobes. It means merely following the simple basic rules of good dress.

Dear Mr. Juster: Would it be proper for a groom to wear a dark business suit and his attendants wear tuxedos when the bride is wearing a long white wedding gown?

G.C. No groom is well-groomed in a dark business suit when his bride wears a wedding gown and his attendants are in tuxedos. You are playing the leading male role in this big event. Don't dress the part of an "extra."

TIP FOR THE DAY

Put This On Your List We won't be so bold as to contend that resolving to look your best should head your list of New Year resolutions. Come to think of it, though, what's more important than presenting a good appearance? You feel better, work better and the impression you make on others may pay handsome dividends.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. He also has a booklet, "Guide to Better Dress" which includes a color chart, physical proportions chart, and many tips for improving appearance. The booklet is available free. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to Harry Juster in care of this paper.

NEXT WEEK: How do you hide a "spare tire"?

For 20 years, California and Oklahoma rivaled each other for top position among the nation's oil-producing states. In 1923, Texas surpassed them both.

How To Keep Well

WEIGHT GAIN DURING PREGNANCY

The ancient belief that a pregnant woman must eat for two seldom is heard any more. But, from the looks of things, some women are practicing the adage in principle. Many cases of obesity later in life can be explained on this basis.

It is natural to become heavier during pregnancy because 15 to 18 pounds are added by the weight of the child, the placenta, and the increased water and normal fluid in the tissues and breasts. The woman who begins pregnancy at a normal weight theoretically should put on no more than this. Anything over 15 to 18 pounds is little more than stored fat.

It is easy to advise women not to acquire more than this but only a few are able to accomplish it. The majority gain more and in one series of 3,000 American women, the average was 30 pounds. An analysis revealed that women of average weight prior to pregnancy put on 24 per cent of their original weight. This means 24 pounds in a 100 pounder, which is within normal limits. But a gal of 120 pounds would gain 29 pounds. A woman who was obese prior to pregnancy cannot afford to gain more than 20 per cent of her original weight; 15 per cent would be better. During pregnancy, overweight may be due to excess accumulation of fluid in the tissues. The physician should be consulted immediately if puffiness is noted about the ankles and eyelids. There are various causes for this condition, varying from the retention of salt in the tissues. A low salt diet is advised plus medication that will help the body eliminate salt.

Appetite must be curbed when overeating is responsible for stoutness. Be on guard during the fourth and fifth months of pregnancy, because this is the time when mothers begin gaining in earnest. Some slim mothers after delivery; others remain on the hefty side. The process is repeated with the next pregnancy, a further warning. It is easy to understand why some mothers are 40 pounds overweight by age 45.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SENSITIVE CENTER

F. H. writes: My husband, aged 62, fainted and the doctor who saw him said a carotid sinus syndrome was responsible for the blackout. Will you please explain this disorder?

REPLY

The carotid sinus is a nerve center in the neck that plays a part in the control of the heart rate and blood pressure. When this center is overly sensitive, the slightest pressure over it may lower blood pressure and slow the pulse to such an extent that fainting occurs.

SMOKER'S TONGUE

J. D. writes: I have white spots inside my mouth which thery.

doctor says is leucoplakia. A friend tells me this condition is due to smoking, but I don't smoke. Please advise.

REPLY

These lesions are due to irritation, usually from smoking, but the teeth or the diet may be responsible. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leucoplakia.

DYING FROM DYEING

E. W. writes: Is it true that several women have died after dyeing their hair?

REPLY

Millions — considering that women have been dyeing their hair since ancient times. Lead poisoning occurred in the past on this metal was used in the dye.

PROOF! that Jimmie Davis cut the old folks monthly pension in 1946...

DFW Form 18-C

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE

Arcadia Louisiana
March 25, 194 6

Mr. J. W. Mangum
Rt. 2, Box 57, Quitman, La.

Dear Mr. Mangum:

As you know, the welfare department for some time has not had sufficient funds to provide the full amount of money for which each person on the public assistance rolls is eligible.

This makes it necessary to adjust grants from time to time, so that all eligible persons will share alike in the funds available. In the future, therefore, this office will notify the State Department of Public Welfare of the amount which you are eligible to receive. You are now eligible to receive $ 22.13. Each month you will receive as much of that amount as it is possible to provide. This will not be less than $ 12.13 unless the amount for which you are eligible changes. The amount of your check for April will be $ 15.43.

We regret that reductions in your grant are sometimes necessary. But, as we explained, it is only fair that all persons share in the funds available for the type of public assistance for which they are eligible. Should additional funds become available, monthly grants will be increased accordingly.

It has also become necessary to change the date on which you will receive your check. Beginning in April, you will receive it on the 16 th of each month.

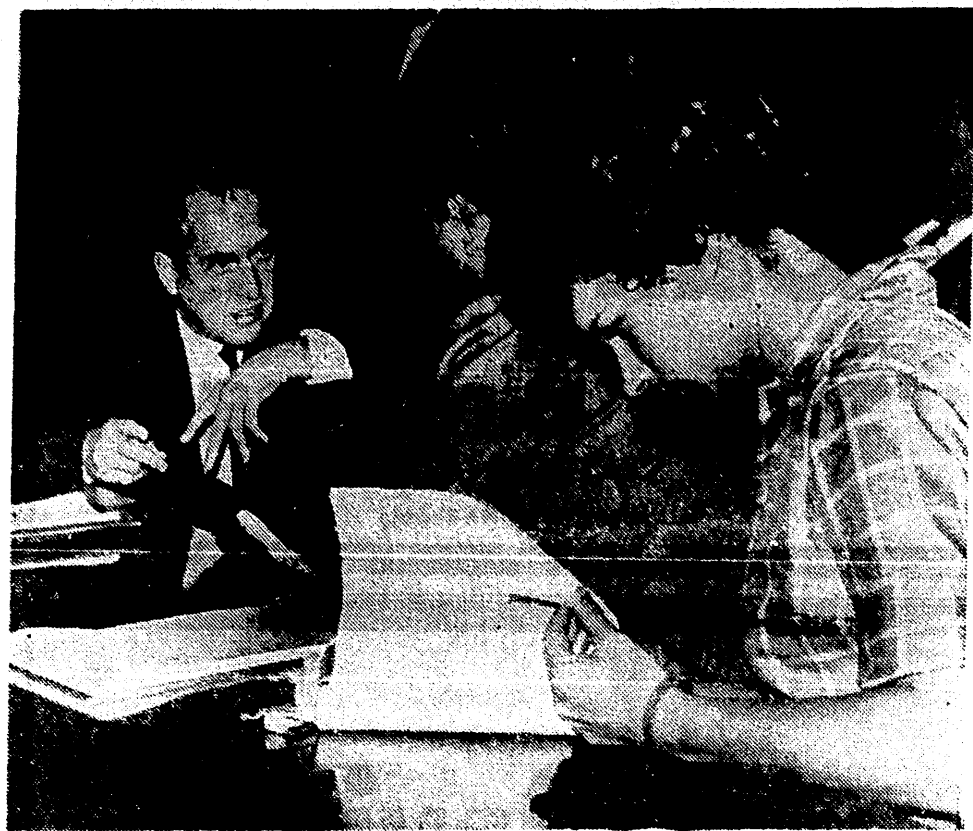

If you have any questions about this, your worker will be glad to discuss them with you.

Sincerely yours,

Blainville Parish
Department of Public Welfare

Jimmie Davis brags about the $50,000,000. (50 million dollars) surplus in his state treasury! Here is how he did it:
On June 27, 1947, Governor Davis had issued a directive cutting every old person, every blind person and every widow $3.00 per month in their pension checks. Only 10 months later Davis left office with a surplus in the treasury of over 50 million dollars!

Deafness Of Actress Is Told

NEW YORK (AP) — For 17 years actress Margaret Sullivan kept her secret—that she was in danger of becoming deaf. But in death, as a final, unselfish gesture, she revealed her gnawing problem by bequeathing the bones of her ears to science.

Her physician, Dr. Julius Lempert, disclosed Friday that the temporal bones of both her ears were delivered to him two days after her death of an overdose of sleeping pills a week ago in New Haven, Conn.

"It was a complete surprise to me. She never had said anything to me about it. She was a wonderful girl. I was deeply shocked to learn of her death and deeply appreciative of what she has done," he said.

Dr. Lempert operated on Miss Sullivan's left ear 12 years ago, restoring hearing through means of a fenestration, or the cutting of a window-like opening inside the ear. But later the same trouble

Thus the temporal bones of her ears have scientific value because they reflect two stages of hearing trouble. Dr. Lempert said it may be the first time a fenestrated temporal bone and one in the first stages of deafness had become available for study. The temporal bones made up the inner, middle and outer ears. Dr. Lempert said Miss Sullivan swore him to secrecy during her lifetime about her hearing trouble. The ailment may have caused the nervousness that sometimes afflicted the actress prior to her performances. Miss Sullivan's death at 46 was ruled accidental by Connecticut authorities. She died of the sleeping pill overdose a few hours before she was due onstage in a new play being tried out in New Haven in advance of Broadway.

Bricker Says Delegate Slate For Nixon Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. John W. Bricker said Friday a delegate slate for Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be entered on the Republican ballot in the May 3 Ohio presidential primary.

Bricker, who had been mentioned as a possible favorite son candidate, said in an interview he will not seek that designation.

He added that he had been assured he would be named chairman of the 56-vote Nixon delegation. He said he confidently expects to be chosen.

Since consent of a candidate is required in Ohio, Bricker said he does not expect any delegates to run in support of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Some Rockefeller backers have announced their intention of entering contests in other states despite Rockefeller's withdrawal from contention for the presidential nomination.

Bricker did not say so, but apparently he made his announcement with the consent of Nixon. Thus far the vice president has made no public announcement that he is running for the GOP nomination.

Officials Crack Down On Germans

BERLIN (AP) — West Germany's first major anti-Nazi demonstration in more than a quarter of a century rolled through the streets of Berlin Friday night.

Authorities were cracking down on neo-Nazi activities and outbursts of anti-Semitism, reflected in anti-Jewish slogans on walls from Hamburg to Hong Kong.

Police estimated 10,000 West Berliners, mostly young people, began their mile-long parade despite weather near the freezing point. Thousands more joined them as they marched. They carried banners reading "Against Race Hate" and "Nazis get Out." Many carried torches.

They streamed toward the Steintplatz Square, where twin monuments stand to the victims of Nazism and Stalinism. The parade for the most part was in orderly silence.

New anti-Jewish activity throughout the Western world consisted largely of painting swastikas and slogans on synagogues and Jewish homes. Communists denied it had spread to their part of the world. But East Germany's Red Premier Otto Grotewohl accused "imperialist and military elements" in West Germany of trying to incite anti-Semitism in his domain.

Evidence appeared that the incidents in Germany had inspired others in Italy. Naples police found swastikas with the German words "Juden Raus"—Jews get out—in the central part of the city.

West German authorities took these steps to discourage neo-Nazi activity.

1. The State of Rhineland-Palatinate banned a public demonstration of the radical rightist German Reich party scheduled in Kaiserslautern for Sunday. Wilhelm Meinberg, a former general in the Nazi's Elite SS and a leader of the party are under arrest for smearing swastikas on a Cologne synagogue Christmas Eve. It was this incident that touched off the worldwide wave of vandalism.

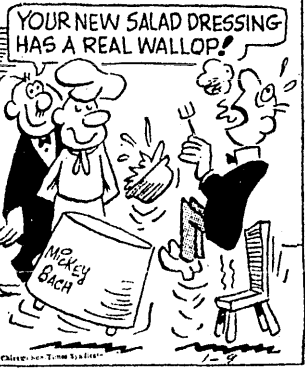

2. A West Berlin German court set what it called an example and sentenced Alfred Straats, 49, a city housing official, to 17 months in prison for giving the Nazi salute before rightist youths in a tavern this week. He admitted this and saying: "Hell Hitler." The Nazi salute is barred under Allied military occupation laws for West Berlin.

A court in Dortmund, West Germany, gave a nine-week sentence to a 42-year-old waiter who also had used the Nazi salute and made anti-Jewish statements about a month ago.

IKE'S FARM PROPOSALS

Republicans Join In Hitting Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Several midwest Republicans joined the Democratic chairmen of the Senate and House agriculture committees Friday in firing away at President Eisenhower's farm proposals.

Their criticism of the farm portion of the President's State of the Union Message pointed out the stalemate between Congress and the Administration. The deadlock just about rules out passage of any significant farm legislation this session.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate committee said the President failed to come forth with any new proposals. Ellender introduced his own farm bill shortly after the President addressed Congress Thursday.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) of the House committee, long time critic of Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, was even more critical. He said all the President has to offer as a farm solution is "more Benson, more Benson, more Benson."

While the President was supported by some members of his party, the Democrats were joined in their criticism by Sens. Francis Case and Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota Republicans, and Milton R. Young (R-N.D.).

Case and Mundt said there was nothing new in then President's farm remarks. Young feared the Eisenhower message would not be "well received at home or in Congress."

Eisenhower did not spell out any farm recommendations. But the Administration is ready to call for elimination of acreage controls on wheat and lower price supports in an effort to check the mounting surplus in that grain.

On Nov. 30 the government's investment in price-supported wheat, corn, cotton and other surplus farm commodities totaled $9,554,044,000. Wheat accounted for more than a third of the total, or $3,455,736,193.

Sen. Roman Hruska (R-Neb.) defended the President. He said Eisenhower "made the inescapable point that it is for the legislative leadership of Congress—namely, the Democrats—to tackle the farm problem."

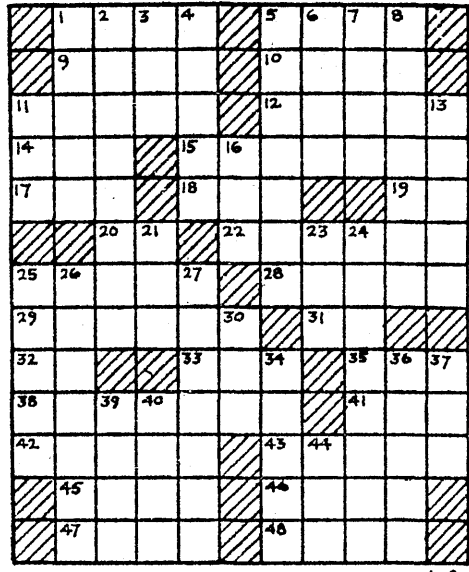

Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) also approved the President's remarks. He said Eisenhower's discussion "of the need for a general revision to meet modern agricultural production records" is very important and will be approved by farmers.

The Administration is expected to call for elimination of all wheat acreage controls and a new price support system based on 75 per cent of the wheat market price for the previous three years.

The present system provides for acreage controls plus props set at 75 per cent of so-called "fair price" parity.

Negro Shot After Woman Is Attacked

ATLANTA (UPI)—Atlanta police early Friday fatally shot a Negro they said had just raped a white woman.

Police said the man was dragging the woman, her clothes in tatters, down an apartment house hallway when they arrived.

The Negro, James Edward Fuller, 34, died soon after admission to Grady Hospital. Officers said he was shot in the hip and died from loss of blood.

Police were summoned to the apartment house by a downstairs neighbor who heard screams and scuffling.

They ran upstairs to find Fuller struggling with the nearly nude woman.

A policeman said "we aren't sure which officer shot him. A lot of shots were fired."

Gen. Shoup Gives Stern Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. David M. Shoup told the Marines Friday to throw away their swagger sticks, look to their personal honor, and buckle down to "selfless service."

Shoup is the new Marine Corps commandant, a medal of honor winner who jumped from major general to the top spot over several senior officers. He was sworn into office on New Year's Day.

His first official remarks, delivered quietly, but with thunderous overtones, were heard by the headquarters staff here on Jan. 4. They were made public Friday as they were circulated in the field.

Marines read "Shoup's manifesto" with glee, seeing in it the stuff of which "expeditionary creatures" as he called them, are made, and the seeds of better morale and discipline.

It laid down stern policies, instructed leathernecks to conform to the rule that the corps, rather than the individual, comes first and decreed that "only the worthwhile individuals" could stay in the Marines.

Symbolic of Shoup's firm views and his flare for stating them, was his comment on the swagger stick, a $10 item that Marine officers have carried for years. It was "optional," like a private's right to refuse KP.

Nehru Says No Accord On Border

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said Friday there appeared to be no meeting ground between himself and Communist Premier Chou En-lai for a settlement of China-India border dispute.

But Nehru told his weekly news conference he would be glad to hold talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev if he could stop in India next month on his journey to Indonesia for a visit. Khrushchev has said he hopes to make the stop.

Nehru called Chou's Dec. 26 letter on the border dispute an "argumentative note" and said there was a "very big gap" between the Indian and the Chinese position.

The letter repeated Chou's proposal for an immediate meeting with Nehru. It rejected all Indian claims to the areas along the frontier. Nehru had turned down two earlier invitations for talks with Chou and explained that he could not negotiate the issue while Chinese troops occupied Indian territory.

He refused to lay down the exact conditions under which he would meet Chou. If he specified set conditions and erected a rigid attitude, he said, it would not be proper.

"There is nobody I'm not prepared to meet," Nehru said, but he added that a meeting of this sort is only desirable when "one considers it will produce good results."

Asked if he still stood behind a previous statement that India's borders were not negotiable, Nehru said "there is nothing that is not negotiable." But he said he had meant there could be no bargaining on the borders.

Nehru said that when he heard Khrushchev was going to Indonesia, he suggested to him that he would be very happy if he could stop in India.

We've gone places!

Ten years ago, the first Volkswagens were imported into the U.S.A.

These strange little cars with their beetle shape were almost unknown.

All they had to recommend them was 32 miles to the gallon (regular gas, regular driving), an aluminum air-cooled rear engine that could go 70 mph all day long without strain, sensible size for a family, and a sensible price-tag too.

Beetles multiply: so do Volkswagens. By 1954, VW was the best-selling imported car in America. It had held that rank each year since. In 1959, Volkswagen was once again first, with over 150,000 VWs sold, including station wagons and trucks.

Millionaires buy them; so do working people and college kids. Their snub noses are familiar in every state of the Union; as American as apple strudel. Volkswagen is an honest car. We think it's the best car in the world for your money. Everyone who owns one seems to agree. We'd be glad to arrange a test drive... very soon.

we believe Chep Morrison is the best man to maintain segregation!

As citizens of Notheast Louisiana, and as members of their local Citizens Council, the stand which these men have taken for segregation cannot be questioned and is above reproach!

Their individual statements are listed below . . . however they are all unified in their belief that segregation must be maintained . . . and that Chep Morrison is the best man to maintain segregation.

I was born and reared in Bastrop, La, and was president of Morehouse Parish Citizen Council in 1958. I believe Chep Morrison is the best qualified candidate to maintain segregation in Louisiana by action rather than words.

E. F. Madison
Bastrop

As former Chairman of the Board of the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council and a citizen of Monroe, I am firmly convinced that Chep Morrison will do all in his power to maintain segregation in Louisiana.

Dr. D. L. Anderson
Monroe

On the vital issue of segregation, for which I have fought so hard, Chep Morrison has proven himself dedicated to maintain segregation and will battle for what I believe in.

Lymon Stevenson
Jonesboro

I am a life long resident of Bastrop and Morehouse parish, and I am supporting Chep Morrison for Governor because I believe he will use all lawful and intelligent means to preserve our segregated way of life.

A. B. McBride
Bastrop

As a practicing attorney of Farmerville, Louisiana, member of and attorney for Union Parish Citizen's Council, and chairman of Bayou D'Arbonne Lake Watershed Commission for Union and Lincoln Parishes, I am supporting Chep Morrison and the Morrison-Bowdon ticket because Chep Morrison offers the only legal and practicable solution of the integration problem in Louisiana, as is apparent from an examination of his platform. Additionally, as between the two candidates, Chep Morrison is the only one who has taken a positive and firm stand on the many important issues involved in the gubernatorial campaign - the only candidate whose platform presents an all-round program for the progress of the State of Louisiana - the only candidate who has a well-balanced platform which covers the all important question of the proper conservation and utilization of the many and varied natural resources in the State of Louisiana.

Armand F. Rabun, Attorney
Union Parish Citizens Council

"I will use all of the powers of the Governor's office to maintain segregation in Louisiana...it must be maintained!"

The people of Louisiana have achieved their greatest progress under the traditional background of segregation of the races. I am convinced that maintenance of segregation is best for all our people and for the continuation of good relations in Louisiana. This is the system, the custom and tradition under which our people have lived in harmony for so many years. It must be maintained.

Chep Morrison

deLesseps S. Morrison, Candidate for Governor
